A glorious sendoff for the football team: the percussion section of the marching band never jammed better and never jammed so long ... WERE YOU THERE?

A pep rally in the gym: the cheerleaders never stopped yelling and the players never stopped smiling ... WERE YOU THERE?

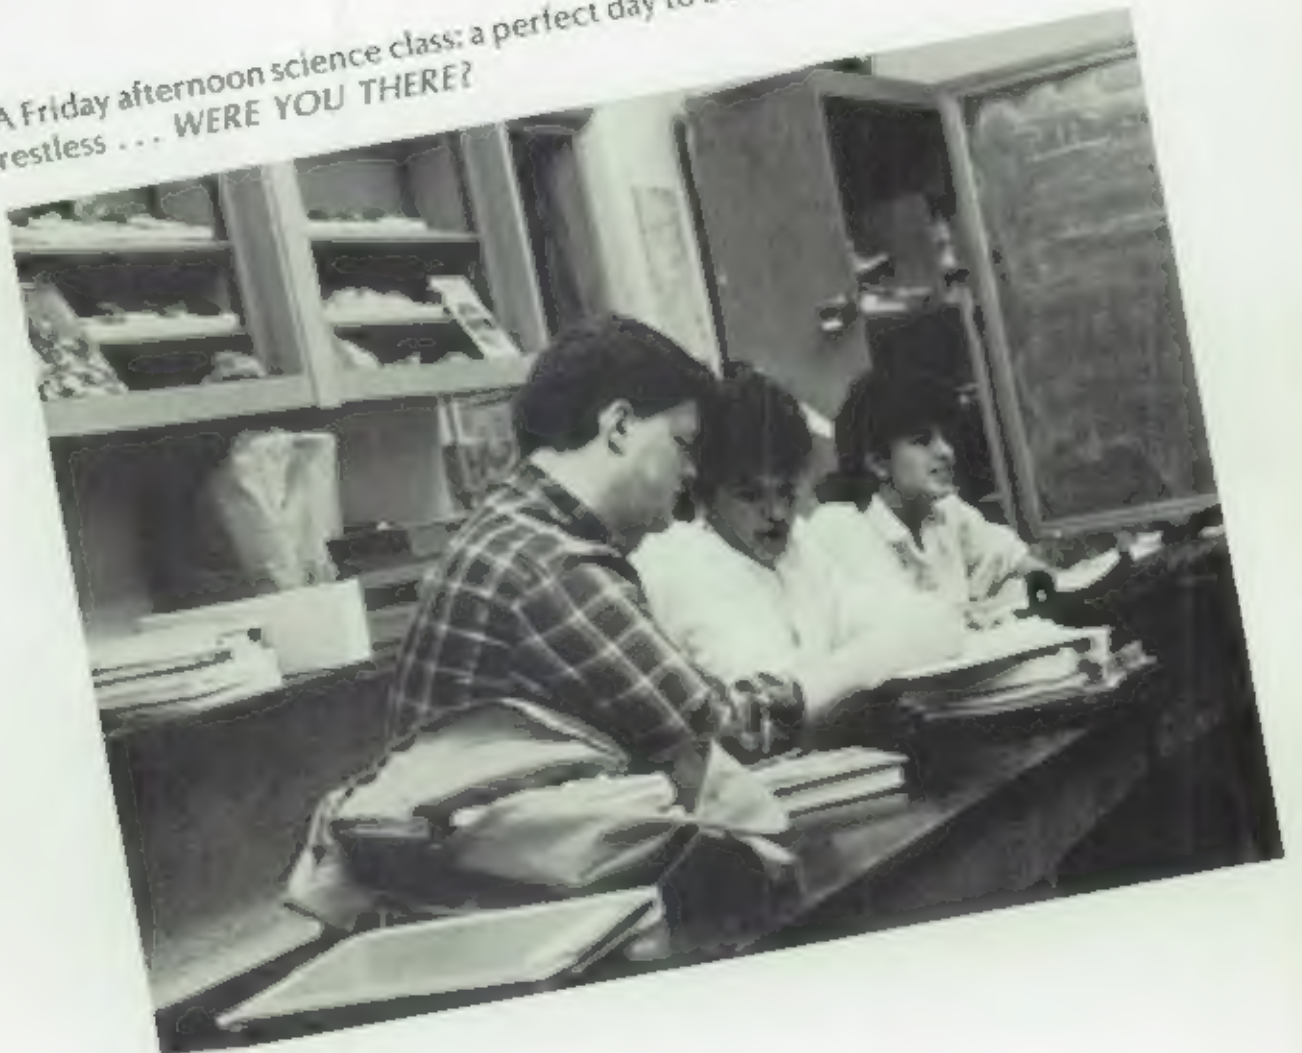

A group of friends: laughing, singing off-key, just hangin' out ...
WERE YOU THERE?

A conspiracy to kidnap and hold for ransom our beloved Woo Rock ... WERE YOU THERE?

A Friday afternoon science class: a perfect day to be outside, everyone is restless ... WERE YOU THERE?

The cheers and spirit collapsing into laughter and onto the floor ...
WERE YOU THERE?

The rituals with which we showed our spirit before the football games
(even if they were a little strange) ...
WERE YOU THERE?

It takes lots of work and fun to fill the stage with high school talent ... WERE YOU THERE?

School is over for another day: a loud, joyous crowd floods out the doors ... WERE YOU THERE?

A speech tournament: the library bustles with extempers ready to talk their way to the top ... WERE YOU THERE?

A mock wedding: complete with a preacher, bride and groom ... WERE YOU THERE?

The crazy festivities of Homecoming: a parade, pep rally, the game and just plain fun ... WERE YOU THERE?

Loyally supporting the football team in Columbus during the playoffs are Jim Larson, Pat Gray and John Veney.

Students spend a lot of time just hangin' out with friends like Kim Durdan and Sima Pandya.

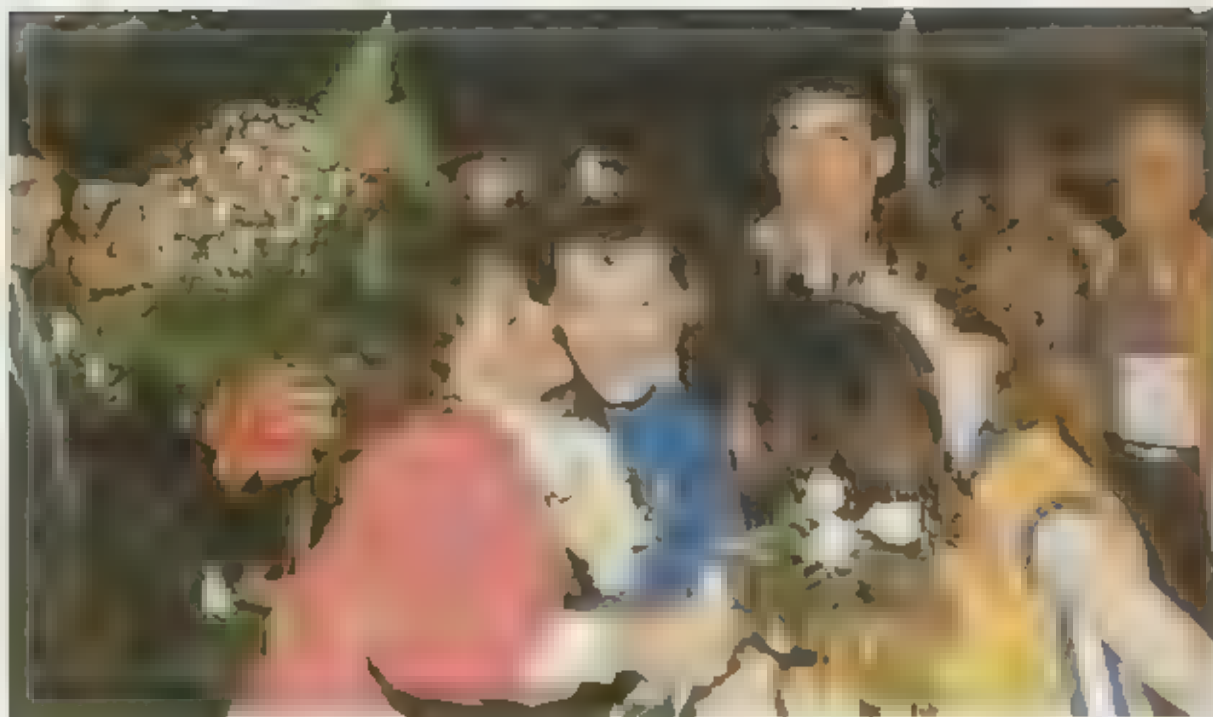

Keeping your head above water, no matter how fast you paddle, is a common feeling to all students. Richard Withrow goes down with his ship.

Rock-n-Roll In The Rain

The Homecoming parade and pep rally fell on a sweltering September day. It was one of the few years that there wasn't rain; which couldn't be said for the game which occurred in a heavy downpour. The traditional masquerade by the band members was anything but traditional as head gear ran from baseball caps to a 747 hat.

The Homecoming court rode in the five Corvettes that have become a tradition. The football players rode in a truck pleading with photographers for just one more picture."

Ingenious designs were initiated for the floats this year. The freshmen placed second in the competition with their theme "Wimpy, Wimpy Rebels — Hefty, Hefty Generals." The sophomores and juniors used "Roast the Rebels" and "Jinx John Adams." Seniors took first place with "Pebble the Rebels."

The pep rally was complete with sirens, the football mothers and the skit put on by the senior girls. A roaring bonfire completed the evening. The Homecoming festivities had just begun.

Usually bonfires are rained out. This year's was as hot as the evening itself.

Senior Nick Havholm and junior Penn Mallonn strut down the street during the Homecoming parade, while freshman Jud Altholt follows their lead.

Chaos "rains" in the stands as the skies open during 3rd quarter.

Meet the Flintstones with Tassie Szarka and Lisa Myers on the winning senior float.

Co-captains John Murphy, Doug Glasgow and Mike McClain scare spirit into the crowd.

Dena Campbell and Kent Mower are greeted by the flower girl and crown bearer.

Jinx John Adams, the theme for the junior float, received third this year.

Dawn Rudolph helps lead the seniors in their class spirit while joining Mike Rebman and his bright red pickup in the Homecoming parade.

Homecoming Was Festive

The Homecoming game began on a beautiful starless night with the announcement of the 1986 Homecoming court. Beth Burdno was crowned queen.

The game kicked off and continued through two quarters of sprinkling rain. The marching band members quietly donned their raincoats and lined up in the endzone. SUDDENLY, coats dropped, and screams rose. A mob, A riot!? No; the marching band's tribute to the birth of rock-n-roll.

The stadium was transformed into a neighborhood malt shop while "The Little Old Lady From Pasadena" and the Ventures with "Wipe Out" came to visit. The crowd was brought to it's feet when our "Leader of the Pack", Mr. Ladd, was escorted in by a motorcycle gang.

The rain held out just barely. The Generals drowned John Adams until the rain drowned everything.

Saturday the gym was transformed into a carnival complete with fortune teller and tunnel of love. The speech team's theme, "Moonlit Mardi Gras", was a beautiful finale to a wonderful Homecoming weekend.

The drenching rain did not drown out the music or "dampen" Mr. Scatterday's spirit.

This moon, that hung from the hoop, brought the ideas of both school and "carnival" together.

Wooster Catches Playoff

If there was ever a time when life in Wooster stood still, it was during the 1986 football playoffs. Everybody got involved in the General spirit! T-shirts, visors and buttons were sold every week. Teachers and students alike, enthusiastically participated in the weekly pep rallies. Each week an official "General T-shirt day" was designated, where both teachers and students showed off the latest design in General spirit. Dr. Hocking also dedicated specific areas of the building for groups to decorate "Decorate the doors," "decorate the halls," and "decorate the windows," were three themes that kept the excitement rolling. Honors the first week were captured by the artistic work of Mr. Hostnick's (room 210) first period class. The "decorate the halls" awards were presented to the Sophomore class. Mr. Snider's room 215, (one of the few rooms without windows) received the 1st place vote in the third contest.

Weekly send-offs held in the Rubbermaid parking lot and the town square brought crowds; all there to root on our mighty Generals. The town participation was also seen in window signs, banners on city buildings and financial support for decorations. This was truly a city-wide effort. Thousands of supporters and fans followed the 1986 General football team through the playoffs. But the question is . . . WERE YOU THERE?

The send-off for the Cincinnati Purcell-Marion football game is held on the square downtown. Parents and friends are wishing the team good luck before the game.

Many classes show their spirit with creative door designs such as this one: "Ride the Stallions."

This colorful banner echoes the battle cry throughout the playoffs of the team and their supporters.

Spirit In Big Way

The seniors, showing their usual outstanding spirit, wildly applaud the team as they enter the gym.

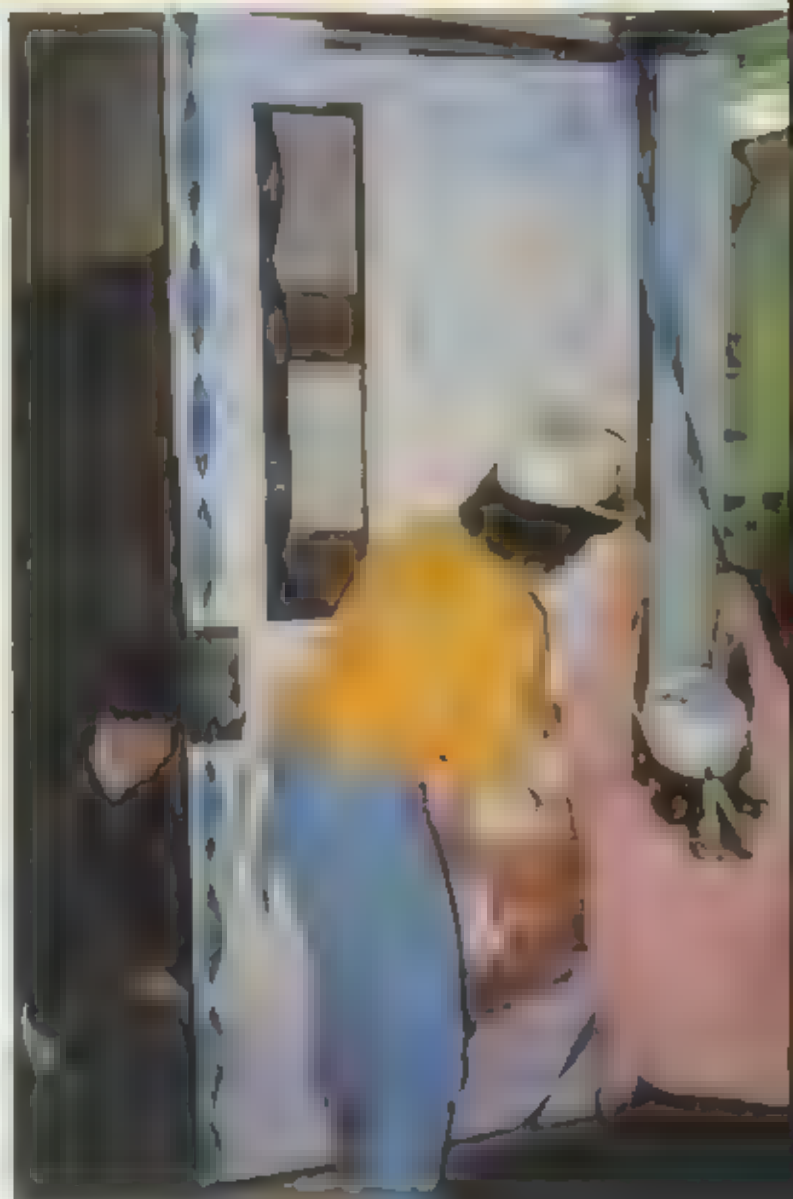

One of the 1st period math classes chooses a combination Big Red gum/Pac Man theme for their door.

Even the Wayne County courthouse gets into the swing of things by sporting a blue and gold banner.

Busily decorating their door for the judging are Maggie Walsh, Amy Reardon and Pat Gray.

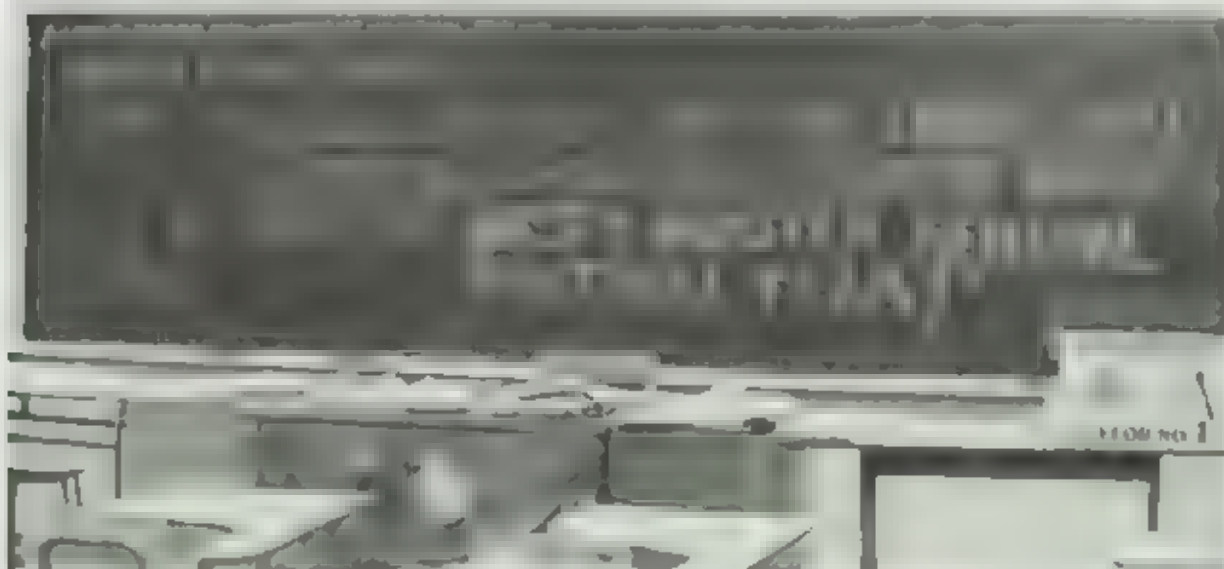

During the football playoffs, the Columbus stadium is engulfed by a wave of blue and gold.

Faithful football supporters wait for the team as the procession including two fire engines, three police cars and three buses comes into view.

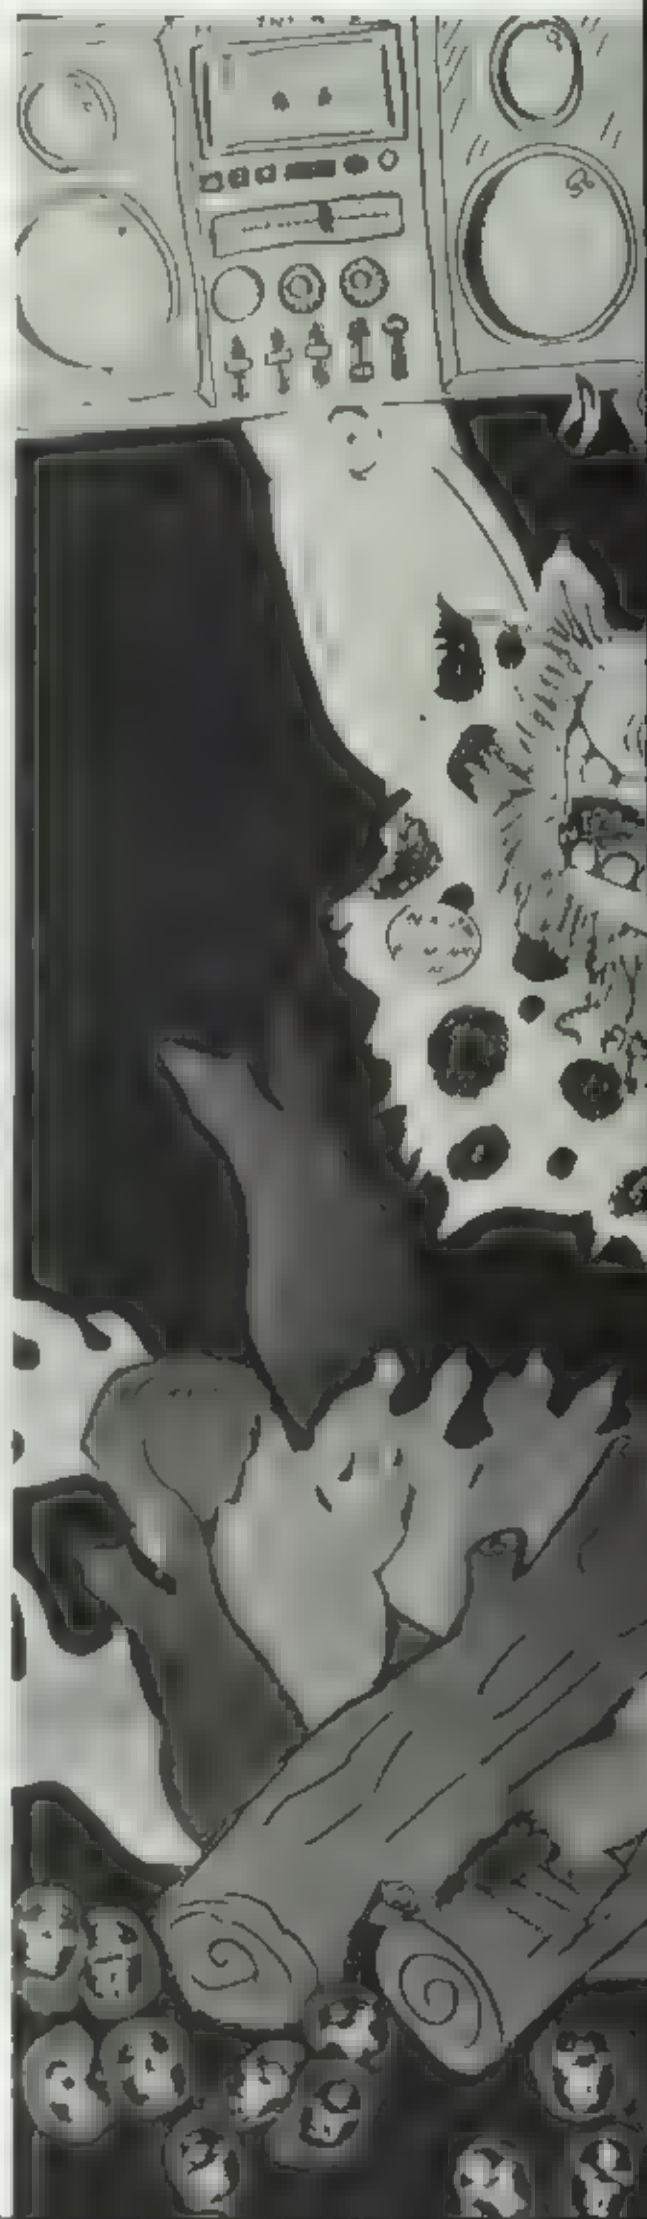

Combining their history lessons with a touch of spirit, Mr. Bostancic's fifth period class rallies behind the Generals

Mike Gallagher, Jim Miller and Bob McFarland attend to the difficult chore of judging the best door out of a field of approximately sixty doors.

GENERALS

WAYNE COUNTY NATIONAL BANK

The bank showed their spirit by flashing 'Go Generals Beat Cincinnati' continuously throughout the week prior to the game against Cincinnati Purcell-Marion.

Using the central theme of 'We Will Rock You,' Mr. Hostnick's class won first place in the door competition with their representation of Coach McFarland (as the beast) and the team (as the rocks).

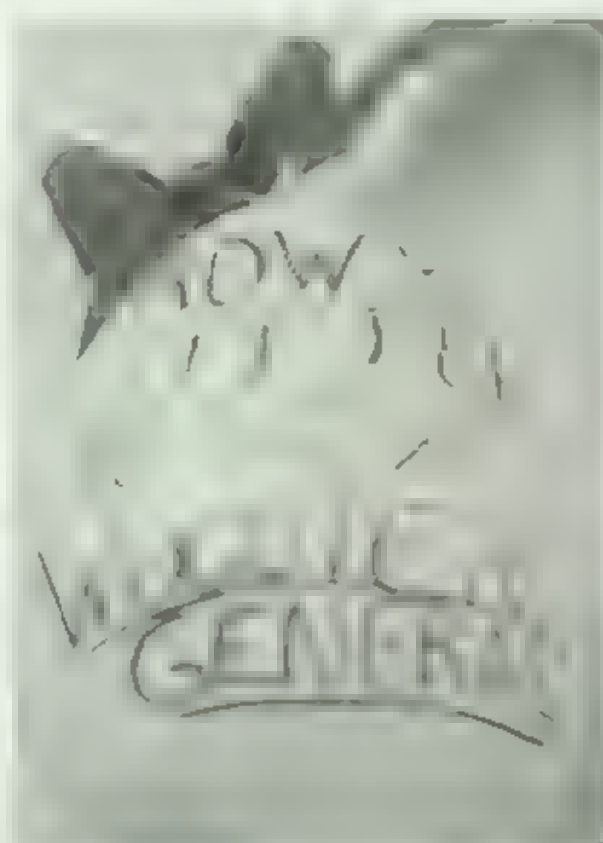

A group of artistic and spirited computer students join forces with the English class above them, to create a two story mural for the 'decorate the windows' competition.

The fans as well as the team mean business as this poor Stallion finds out when he is pronounced dead on arrival at the Akron Rubber Bowl.

This sign becomes the symbol of 'General mania' as they are found in cars, houses, businesses as well as on the route to Columbus.

Blue and gold forever! By the fourth year the senior girls know how to have fun and get into the swing of school spirit.

"We've always wanted to do this." The senior soccer players live out their innermost fantasies. Love those legs!

If you've got it, flaunt it. Jock Rabbit (Jim Miller) struts his stuff for the football team.

Hurrah, Generals! Senior cheerleader Donna Ratcliffe always has "spirit."

Stand and Cheer!

And they're off! So begins the most exciting game of the year: the women's faculty team against the girls varsity in basketball

Pep rallies have been exciting this year. What usually is a special assembly for just a few teams per season became a weekly activity during the 1986 Football season. Once again our General guys participated in the cheerleading spirit by assisting, as lifters, for our varsity squad at Basketball games throughout the season

The winter sports pep rally featured administration vs. Varsity boys and girls teams. All winter sports teams were introduced. Teachers and staff shed their sports jackets and shirts to run up and down the courts in fun, but exhausting 10 minute games. The lady faculty brought rescue squad, complete with nurses and oxygen masks. In addition to all the excitement, the Varsity Boys Soccer team entertained the crowd with their traditional skills. The school body laughed at the rabbit which took on the looks of "Rambo" Rabbit and "Jammin'" Rabbit. The pep rallies have served as both a booster to the crowd involvement and an extra push that the teams enjoy

Po Pyle and Lola Franks take a much needed break from reviving fazed players in the faculty vs. varsity basketball games.

Go, fight, KILL! As Nell Reardon battles fiercely for the ball, Mady Noble cheers her on. We love those shorts.

Has Anyone Seen HARVEY?

Harvey? Who's Harvey? Harvey was this year's Fall drama production. This 1940's innovative comedy, a Broadway success, was a Wooster success as well.

All the actors were superb, with accurate comedic timing and extreme displays of futile drama to bring out the hypocrisy of the 1940's society.

Major characters in Harvey were Ryan Gibbons as Elwood P. Dowd; Nora VanLieu as Veta Simmons; Faith Colburn as Myrtle Simmons; Jeff Terwilliger as Dr. Chumley; John Moses as Dr. Sanderson; Jenny Murray as Ruth Kelley and John Mosher as Judge Gaffney.

Other cast members included Amy Burger, Loren Muzzy, Alexandra Hartmann, Kim Mark, Marlissa Harris, Dixie Leatherman and Dawn Rudolph.

Play action centered around the ownership of a six and one-half foot invisible rabbit (or is he) who manages to disrupt entire households. He's a wise but mischievous creature, very fond of rum pots and crack pots and ... The November production played to good sized audiences on Thursday, Friday and Monday.

Strained relations exist within the Simmons' household. Here Miss Johnson, Amy Burger, refuses to give the telephone away.

This wooden Harvey stood in the main hall for nearly two weeks advertising the new "look" of the Drama Club.

Betty Chumley, Kim Mark, writes pertinent information on one of Elwood P. Dowd's, Ryan Gibbon's, cards.

Myrtle Mae Simmons, played by Faith Colburn, constantly teases Mr. Wilson the asylum's "bouncer", Loren Muzzy.

Nora Vanlieu, Vela Simmons, demands that Judge Gaffney, John Mosher, press charges against the insane asylum where she had been thrown into a hydrolub.

Elwood P. Down, Ryan Gibbons, confidently hangs up a picture of his friend Harvey and himself after effectively removing the portrait of his "beloved" mother.

A Message Of Love

"A drama with the magnitude of The Miracle Worker provides numerous challenges to even the best of professional acting companies," stated the Daily Record, and it was "... above a typical high school attempt in theatre."

First year director, Lizbeth Butdorf, did a fantastic job in taking the talent that exists at WHS and putting on a professional production. The cast rehearsed very hard over a six week period and included; Nora VanLieu (Helen), Amy Burger (Annie Sullivan), John Mosher

(student director), Erin Smith, Tod Olah, Curtis Ring, Andrea Ullery and Sundance the dog

All the major and minor catastrophes were survived and on the evenings of April 23-25 a story of love, learning and understanding was performed. The Miracle Worker, the story of Helen Keller and her struggle to understand was first performed on Broadway with both Helen and Annie in attendance. The WHS Drama Club wished to do them proud

Helen Keller, Nora VanLieu, creates her own extensive mischief

Percy, Jackson Miller, takes confinement as part of freshmen life.

Understanding shines through Helen's, Nora VanLieu's, eyes as she finally perceives what Annie Sullivan, Amy Burger has been trying to teach her.

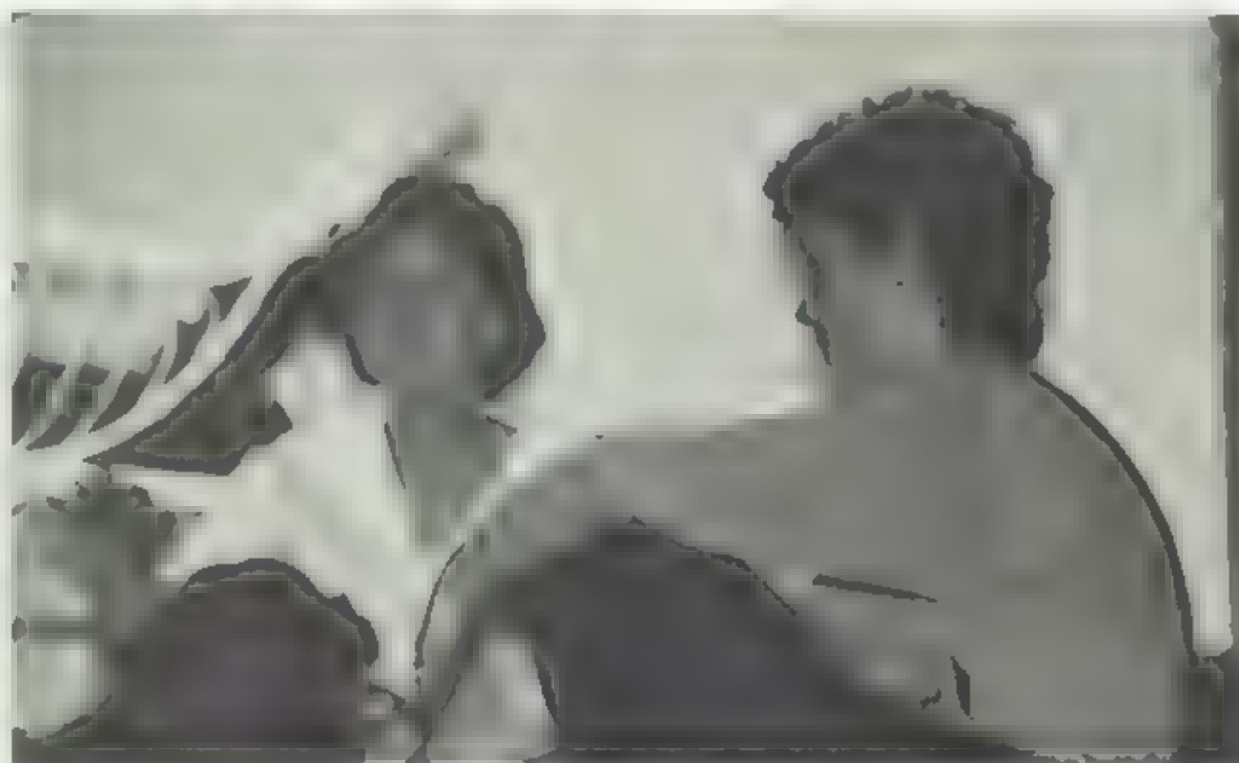

Captain Keller, John Mosher, and Katie Keller, Jennie Stoll, embrace Helen after she comprehends that things have names

Helen fights fervently with Annie Sullivan

Kathleen Kearney and Jackson Miller discuss the attributes of chasing Sundance across the stage

Helping herself complacently to breakfast, Helen encounters the disapproving hand of Annie

The family and servants watch as Captain Keller tries to help Annie out her window

Teacher Annie Sullivan, Amy Burger, meets Helen, Nora VanLieu, for the first time

1987 prom queen Tricia Hodges is crowned by 1986 queen Lorri Karrenbauer. Looking on is Todd Gallagher, Lorri's escort. Bo Steiner is Tricia's escort

Jerry Smith gives a gentle twirl to Bethanne Burrows as they are introduced

Hey guys, you make a cute couple, but the boys are to dance with the girls

Heather Amann is escorted by Brady Hartmann across the flower lined stage.

Alice greeted everyone as they entered the post prom wonderland hosted by junior class parents. Over 550 students enjoyed the party.

Guests enjoy a dance break and refreshments during the prom. Food included punch, trail mix and tea cookies

Juniors Mark Newcomer and Matt McCoy take a chance to build their money supply. Careful gambling may pay off with some great prizes which can be bought with their "funny money". Parents manning the games wore crowns and cards

Courtney Miller, junior, seems to enjoy her pool game. In the same area, students could try their skill at ping pong and numerous video games.

A Night In Wonderland

Juniors and seniors joined Alice in Wonderland, the Mad Hatter and the White Rabbit for "A Night In Wonderland" at the 1987 Prom. This year's gala was held at Fisher Auditorium at the OARDC. Breaking with tradition further, parents then hosted the post prom festivities at Skou Hall at ATI

Approximately 300 students danced to the music of Champagne Leroy amid trees twinkling with miniature white lights. Parents and friends viewed the grand march and crowning of the 1987 queen and her court. Tricia Hodges was crowned queen by Lorri Karrenbauer, 1986 prom queen. Senior attendants were Susie Morris and Laurie Vitallo. Juniors Joelle Damron and Sandra Szemplak completed the court

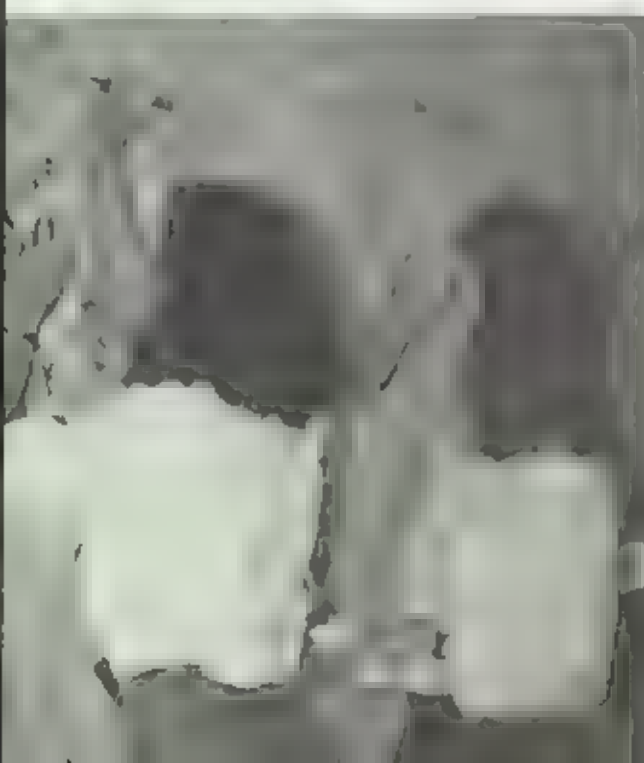

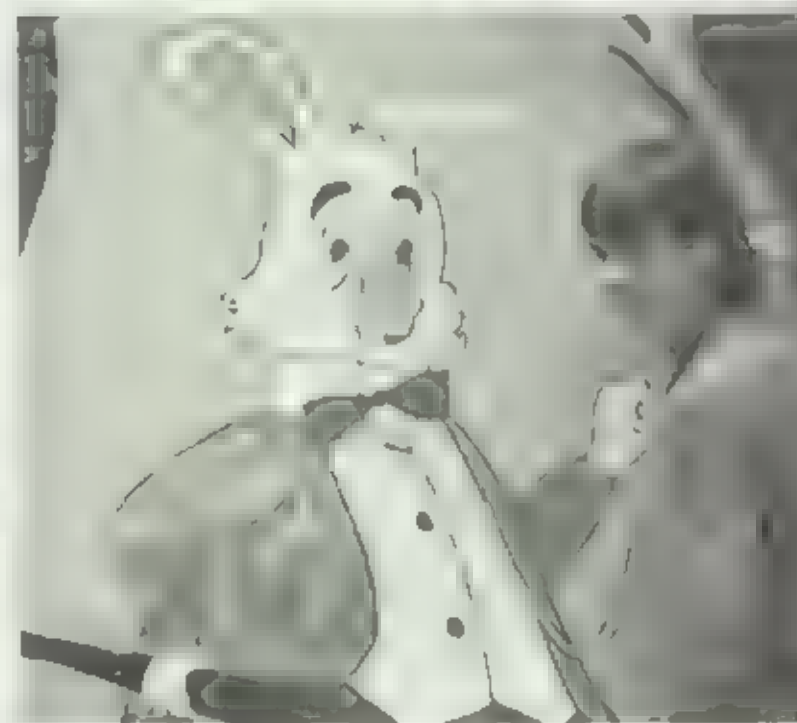

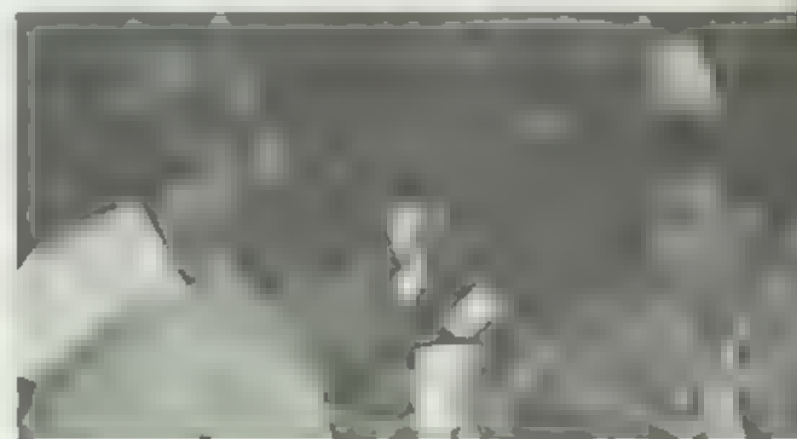

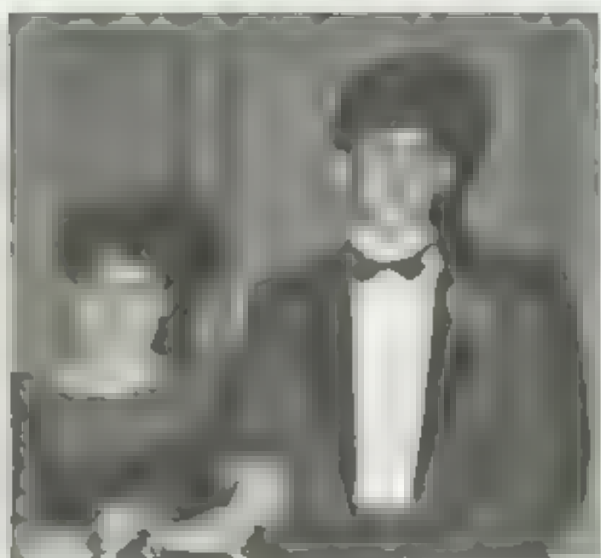

Junior class parents transformed ATI into a true wonderland. Both floors were covered with life-size and larger Cheshire cats, mad hatters, crazy direction signs, butterflies, Twiddle-dee and Twiddle-dum, White Rabbits and hundreds of flowers and potted plants. Party goers played games of chance, visited a palm reader, played pool or ping pong, ate a bounty of food, danced til the wee hours, sat for facial sketches, relaxed and watched a tape of grand march and just enjoyed a wonderful party. A big hit was the floor to ceiling autograph wall where everyone had a chance to "leave their personal mark" on a very special night in wonderland

Finish With Class

On Sunday, June 7 at 1:30 p.m., four years of high school, tests, homecomings, study halls, dances, speech tournaments, athletic games and daily gatherings with friends came to an end for the Class of '87. Filing into a very warm Timken Gymnasium at the College of Wooster were 287 graduates. Junior class officers Kathy Weekley and Tim Gallagher led in the class and collected the customary penny from class members as they went to their seats.

Dr. Charles Pfeiffer read the graduates names and listed their honors and scholarships. Diplomas were given out by Dr. Roger Moyer school board president. National Merit finalist, Ted Bromund received recognition and a special medal from Dr. Curtis Smith. Over eighty scholarships were granted to class members.

Three students, graduated with perfect 4.0 GPA's. They were Katherine Elwell, Tricia Hodges and Susie Morris. Senior class president Doug Glasgow led the new graduates in turning their blue and gold tassels before the jubilant group heaved their motorboards.

Principal Paul Ladd congratulated the graduates on being an outstanding class. A round of applause was started by the speakers platform and resulted in a standing ovation from the audience of family members and guests.

As the new graduates filed proudly out into the sunny afternoon, there were many smiles and a few tears for the passing of a special time in the lives of the Class of 1987. Here's to the future!

After this year, there is no country in my mind. There are places and people I've learned to love, and there is a big desire that makes those places, different places. Yesterday seems to be so close. I remember my first day here everything looked to be so different. I was so different.

The year was just beginning. The picture I had was "a few suitcases" and a long blank way to go. I was excited but scared. It wasn't easy to realize that I was so far away from home.

Now I understand the meaning of the verb "to be born." I had to start all over. For the second time I learned how to speak, how to take my steps, but I wasn't afraid to fall. I know I had people beside me, ready to give me their hands, people, who made me feel not just like an exchange student, but a part of their lives — people, who are not just "host families," but my family.

Now I see the same long way, but it's not blank anymore. There are so many flowers, so many colors, and each one represents one of you, who made this year a wonderful and unforgettable experience.

It will be hard to leave, but I won't let you go, no matter the time or the distance. You will be always with me, as a part of my life.

I'm very glad I have had chances to share this year with you. The only way to understand how special this year is, is living it.

I've learned to love this people, this language, and I will never forget it. I will never forget you.

Thank you for everything.

Thank you for being so special.

Love forever

Decorations for this year's dance include numerous hearts done in miniature lights and tons of balloons. It takes numerous balloons to trim the gym!

Just in case anyone did not know who the 1987 Coming Home royalty is, it's listed on the gym door at the Saturday dance.

A King Reigns For Coming Home

The Coming Home dance, now three years old, gained in popularity as it settled into being a WHS tradition. Student Council sponsored this event which broke conventional rules as the girls asked the fellas to this special event during basketball season.

A male court was nominated by juniors and seniors then voted on by the whole school body. The King was crowned at halftime of the Wooster vs. New Philly varsity boys basketball game on February 6. The actual dance took place on Saturday night.

Doug Glasgow, escorted by Tara Woodward, was crowned 1987 Coming Home King. Bo Steiner and Matt Smith were picked as senior attendants, while Tony Lee and Tim Gallagher were junior attendants this year.

Student Council suspends a ceiling full of balloons to drop at the close of the dance.

Students Choose WCSCC

The Wayne County School's Career Center or WCSCC is a very specialized school. 113 juniors and seniors from WHS attend the WCSCC along with students from nine other school districts in the county. The Career Center enables students to learn trades that will help get them jobs after graduation. Students choose from fields such as auto body repair and mechanics, carpentry, clerical services, computer, food service, graphic arts, horticulture, practical nursing, office machines and welding. Students spend three periods a day in what they call a "lab" course, learning about and practicing their major. The remainder of the day is spent in standard academic classes such as English, Math, and Science. Most graduates of the Career Center take advantage of the highly successful job placement program and continue working in the same field of study after graduation. Others go on to college in order to further their education.

Within each trade there are many majors a student can select in which they wish to be trained. Counselors help students choose a field that interests them and best fits their abilities.

The WCSCC has been an opportunity for many students to train for a wide variety of occupations and to improve personal skills in leadership, citizenship and cooperation.

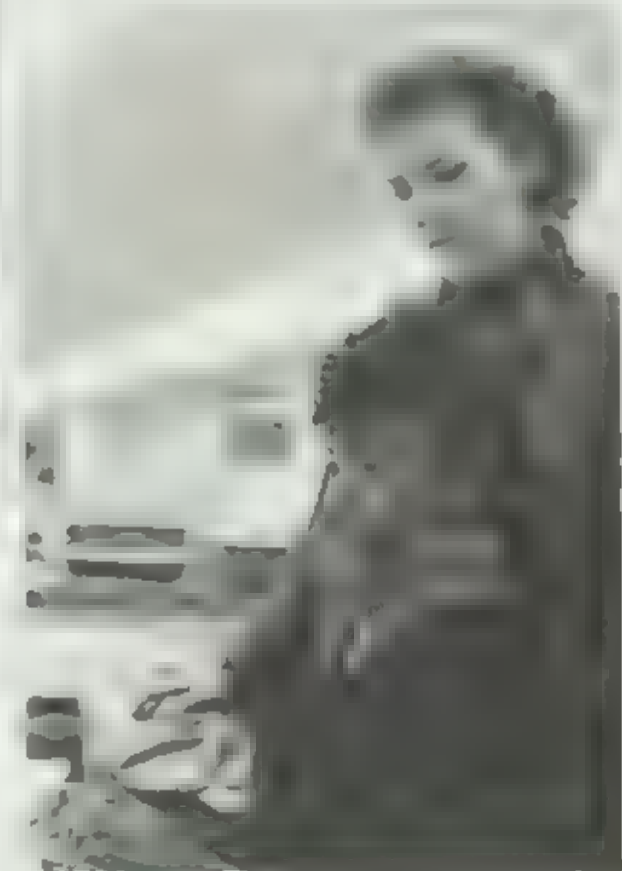

Senior Denise Bowers and juniors Lori Cassidy and Judy Shellhorn attempt to master just one of the many kinds of equipment used in office machines.

Sandy Lucci looks over Vickie Cross's shoulder as she types on a word processor. Both are seniors majoring in office machines.

Tina Mann, a senior in the office machine sequence, adjusts her paper in preparation to type.

Margerita Jackson, a junior, spends time during the day working in the WCSCC cafeteria as part of study in food service. Here she stocks the salad items.

Working on a word processor and preparing to the job market is Tracey Bishop. She is a senior in the office machine field of study.

Senior Missy Repp fills a soup bowl for the diner featuring lunch in the Heritage Room. Students in food service work in the restaurant setting for experience.

Another food service junior is Tammy Bowen. She rotates through her tour working the cafeteria line.

Teri Mann, along with her twin, is also majoring in office machines. A senior, she works on a word processor during an afternoon class.

Connecting a motor speed control circuit is Kelly Girt, a senior in electronics.

A junior, Theresa Martin, works on a large light table to paint a negative. She is majoring in graphic arts.

Steve Yurick, a senior, spends the morning in the computer lab. Here he is using his accounting skills to program the computer.

In order to learn about multi-cylinder engines, Chad Porter does some small engine work. He is a junior in the agriculture mechanics sequence.

Edd Troyer, majoring in welding, uses the tools of his trade in the shop. He is a senior.

Junior, Eric Murphy, works on the Heidelberg wind mill printing press in his graphic arts class. This press is used to number things.

An electronics major, senior Don Beckler is calibrating a scope in his electronics course

Both Betty Bushnell and Deloris Tiller, juniors, work on a drafting table to complete a class project. They spend several hours each day working on such projects.

A drafting major, senior Mike Weiser enjoys drawing on the CAD system or computerized drafting.

Machine trades major, senior Jamie Snyder, works on a milling machine. The machine shop is a busy and noisy work area.

Angel McFadden, a senior in stenography, busies herself with the figuring of invoices

As part of her assignments, Jeannie Harrel, a junior in horticulture, is required to clean the greenhouse after potting plants

Junior Lorna Phillips checks the soil in a plant for her horticulture class. This poinsettia is one of several species grown in the greenhouse.

Junior accounting students Shanna Brenneman, Christy Lowe and Jeanine Moses work to balance a checkbook with the help of a computer.

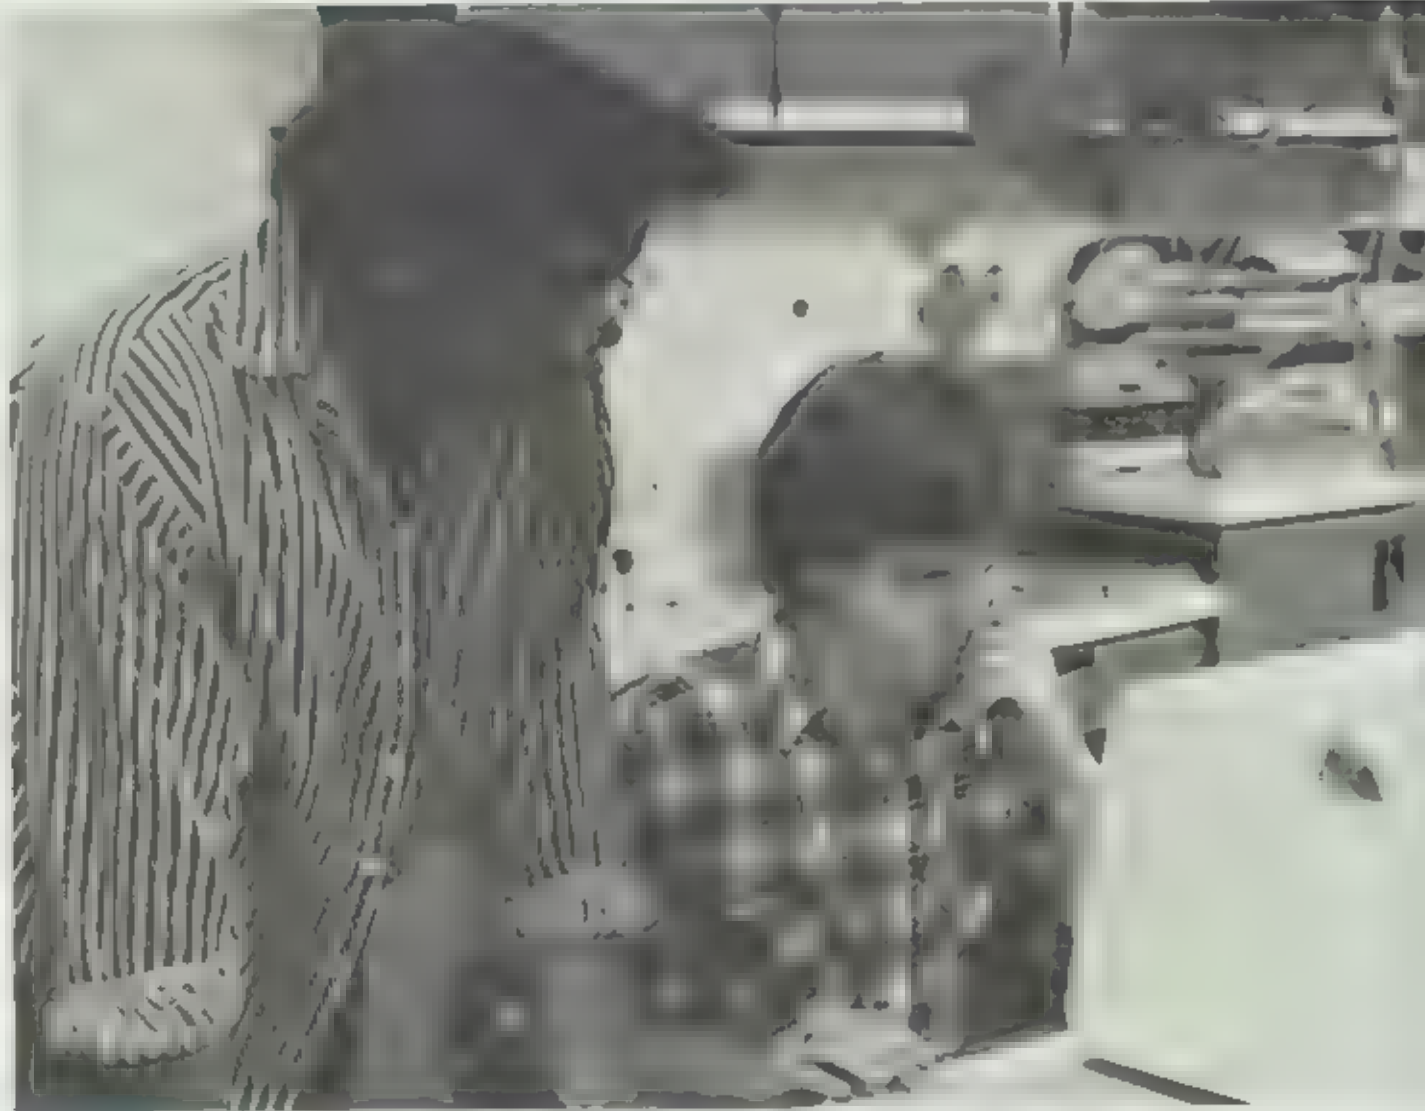

Making sales checks on the computer for her accounting class is junior Sherry Stimpert

Jodi Ash, a senior in the cosmetology program is seen here giving a facial to a fellow classmate.

Buffy Setling practices her hair styling skills on Nancy Kestner in the professional-like salon at the WCSCC. Both girls are seniors in cosmetology.

Junoni Meredith Cadsden watches as Earl Dravenstott does a sales check assignment on the computer in an accounting class.

Working on the file system is a job Midge Jenkins seems to enjoy. She is a senior studying clerical services.

Randy Clark and Tony Wasman, both seniors, spend several hours of shop time doing basic car repair in auto mechanics.

Annette Nickelson, a senior in office machines, diligently completes her assignments.

Band Sparks Spirit

The 1986 Wooster Marching Band had a great year. In addition to performing at all of the varsity football games, the band performed at the Massillon Perry Band Show, the United Way Parade, and a College of Wooster football game.

The band started its season with intense before-school training (commonly known as band camp.) The band started their yearly performance with the Wooster/Glenville football game, and continued to the Generals final game against Cincinnati Purcell Marion in Columbus, Ohio during the state play-offs.

This years homecoming show was worth "coming home" to. The band went "back to the 60's," with popular tunes from that time period. The show was introduced with the 180 member band, flag corps, and majorette line. Featured songs were Wipe Out, with a trapset solo by Paul Hays, Little Old Lady From Pasadena, with Martha Junkin as the little old lady, and Leader of the Pack, where the flag corp and majorettes were escorted in the stadium by antique motorcycles.

All in all, the band upheld the Wooster Band standing with sparks and a little extra flare. Good Luck WHS Band of 1987!

Our Bands Hit Just The Right Note

Many diverse opportunities are given to Wooster students to develop and expand their musical talents and abilities. Some of these opportunities include the symphonic, concert and pep bands. These activities are supervised by Mark Scatterday and Jerome Rodenfels. Scatterday, director for the Symphonic Band, has been here for two years, while Rodenfels, director for the Concert Band, has been at WHS for five years.

Throughout this year filled with challenges, both these men pulled out many "victories" for the music department. One of these challenges was the prolonged football season which caused both of the bands to begin rehearsal three weeks later than planned. Even so, the Symphonic Band was awarded with superior ratings at state contest and the Concert Band gave an excellent performance at King's Island.

Overall, there are 142 people participating in these bands, with mandatory practices up to eight hours a week. The basketball pep band, directed by Bartelheim, is a group that adds to the spirit and fun of the games during the winter. Teamwork is essential to these groups to create the best possible experience, atmosphere and music, so that everyone can enjoy the memories of being in the 1986-87 music program.

The music of the basketball pep band, shown here under the direction of Jennifer Bartelheim, entertains fans and urges the home team onward to victory.

Trumpeters Jud Altoff '90 and Doug Laher '88 help the pep band along with their brassy melodies.

Senior drummer Ted Berry adds explosive interludes to the Symphonic Band's music.

In line form, the 1986-1987 Wooster High School Concert Band

Kathleen "George" Kearney saws away at the old cello strings for yet another Orchestra rehearsal

Strings and Winds

The Wooster High School Orchestra this year consisted of 32 string members and 26 winds. The string members rehearse every morning first period, and woodwinds join them for after school practices before performances.

In September, the Orchestra held it's first performance; a demo concert for fourth and fifth graders.

In December, the Orchestra performed at the Winter String Festival and played their Christmas Concert for the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs.

The string members went to solo and ensemble contest in January as a string ensemble. Unfortunately, they had too many members and could not qualify to receive a rating. They did receive comments however, which indicated that had they received a rating, it would have been superior.

At State Orchestra Contest, they received straight ones, the best rating possible.

Shari Fedorowicz heads up another line full of talented orchestral musicians

Mark Fulton, intent on his music, and Joy Lee tuning up for another productive day at Orchestra.

Music Is Fun

The twenty-two member jazz band is an organization dedicated to the performance of classic music of the "Big Band Era" as well as great jazz standards. In the past years the group has performed at concerts in Cleveland and Akron. Highlighting the bands events was the traditional Big Band Dance held at the school for the entire Wooster community. These skilled musicians have preformed for area organizations such as Rotary International, Lions Club, and Elks Club

The Dixieland band is an elite nine member group formed to provide upbeat Dixieland and jazz music at various civic and private functions. It is under the leadership of the senior members of the group

A new group to the WHS music scene is the brass choir. Instituted by symphonic director, Mark Scatterday, this group is comprised of skilled brass players who perform in a samll ensemble format

Some members of the well respected 1986-87 Brass Choir include; Meredith Monroe, Greg King, Bill Pearch, Matt Geisler and Anne Lewellen.

Sing!

1986-87 was a very prosperous year for the choral program and its director, Mr. Gene Lehman. In one year, the choral program grew from 35 members to 95 members and this allowed them to add a girls chorus in addition to the mixed chorale

The choral program's major functions included the Tree Lighting Festival at Quaker Square, the Winter Choir/Orchestra Concert and luncheon performances at the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs. The choral program also performed at an assembly for the entire school

In addition, the choir took fifteen entries to District Solo and Ensemble Contest at the University of Akron. The mixed chorus received it's first superior rating at District Choir Contest in ten years. This superior rating earned them the right to perform at State Choir Contest

The show choir had it's second successful year with an average of three performances a month and participated in two workshops at Kent State University and Waynedale High School

Paul Johnides wooed by Faith Colburn and Kathy Weekly . . . and loving every minute of it!

Fifteen Are State Bound

When a very sleepless Friday night (a.k.a. a long Saturday morning) is followed by an early morning bus trip to Kent State University — What do you think of? Torture? No, these people do this voluntarily — It was for the regional division of the National History Day Contest

Members of John Ulbright's Advanced Placement classes participated and Wooster ended up sending fifteen to state. Along with repeat winners Scott Blanchard and Ted Bromund, Ed McKiernan, Courtney Miller, John Murray, Jon Bell, Scott Killian, Mark Beckler, Nick Havholm, Jeff Scott, Nancy Gates, Anne Lewellen, Becky Mason, Chris Bradham and Andy Cox were among the state qualifiers. All these people hope to repeat the fantastic feat of Scott Blanchard by continuing on to national competition

The long day of judging and the hours spent preparing were well rewarded this year and hopefully will be again, in the years to come. Congratulations!

"Freedom of the Press" (Nancy Gates, Anne Lewellen, & Becky Mason).

First Ever!

Wooster's Mock Trial Teams set a school record this year by qualifying, not one but both of it's teams for state competition in Columbus. Out of eight teams, our school knocked out all the regional competition and headed for further "mock legal" battle with 26 other teams from Ohio. The teams are judged on presentation and acting as a lawyer, witness and plaintiff in the simulation of a court trial

Both teams, all seniors, included: Bu Steiner, Nick Fynn, Wendy Richard, Brian Pett, John Moser, Nancy Taggart, Laurel Battles, Ron Smith, Tim Kochler, Scott Blanchard, John Mitten, Sharah Khalil, Pat Gray and David Harpster. Also assisting were Ted Berry and Liz Deffenbaugh, Ryan Gibbons, Jennifer Haskew and Tim Mills.

Congrats to these "legal eagles" and here's hoping for a trip to nationals in Washington, D C

Week Highlights Black History

The History Department devoted a week to highlighting Black History Week. Terry Kershaw, a black sociologist from the College of Wooster, visited classes and "I Have A Dream...", a civil rights film was shown. A high point of the week was the appearance of Leon Bibb, a Channel 3 news anchor from Cleveland. His assembly talk focused on his life and career with special emphasis on the importance of education. A lively question and answer session concluded his visit.

Leon Bibb rubs elbows with Ryan Gibbons and Jon Moore. Many students talked, one-on-one, with him.

Channel 3's anchorman, Leon Bibb, stressed education and the importance of a world community.

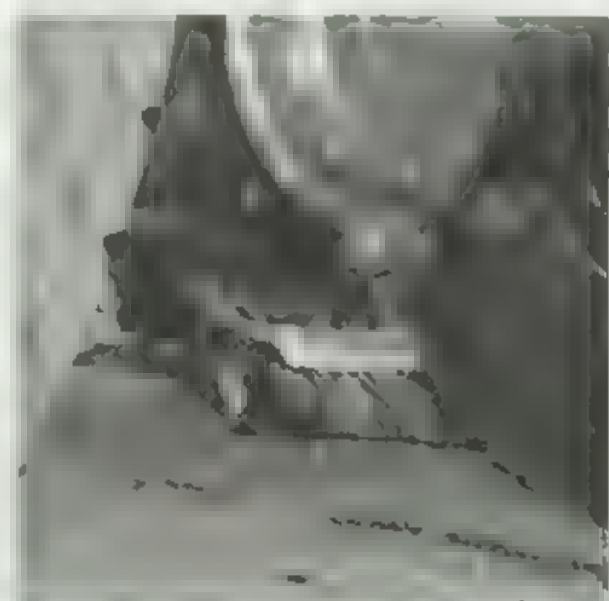

A Wooster city firefighter helped the WHS Science Department with the egg drop.

He broke over five dozen eggs, the crowd below screamed their approval or shouted their dismay as the eggs plummeted to their death.

But a few eggs did live — they were the lucky ones. The winning structure was four centimeters of jelly and sawdust.

The Wooster ladder truck that was parked by Freedlander Theater was a huge attraction.

Science Olympiad A Success

This was Wooster's first year to host the annual Science Olympiad, and the event couldn't be characterized by anything other than a success. The teachers and students were scrambling like mad the day before the contest to set up everything just right and their efforts definitely paid off. The event was held at the College of Wooster, and practically everyone who attended felt that it was great entertainment.

The contestants arrived early Saturday morning eager to begin pitting themselves against great minds from other schools. The events of the Science Olympiad were diverse and yet all related in some way to science. The types of events included those dealing with physics, like the laser shoot and the bridge building contest, those dealing with mathematics and computer science, those dealing with geology, and those dealing with biology and the earth science. Wooster comprised a strong team, and not surprisingly placed fourth overall which qualified the team to participate in the state contest.

The team was also expected to place well in the naked egg drop, but the Wooster team member dropping the egg missed the structure designed to catch the egg. Some of the teams that weren't so unfortunate and hit their structures were able to advance to a final round in which a firetruck was needed to drop the eggs.

The naked egg drop however, was only one of the many inventive contests designed to challenge the students. In the pentathlon for example, the students had to run an obstacle course comprised of physical obstacles and mental obstacles. The physical obstacles included tires and a balance beam, and the mental obstacles were questions asked throughout the course that the participant had to answer in order to continue. The science bowl was a contest in which four members of a school's team compete with teams from other schools to answer questions from all of the sciences.

Distance Runners Build Program

This was a season of learning for both the runners and the coach. Dave Snider assumed the responsibility of coaching Wooster's cross country team this year for his first time. Snider had two basic goals for the season. He wanted to change the attitudes of the runners on the team, and wanted to begin building a strong program. Though the record of the team was three wins and four losses, Snider claims that the team had a more successful season than he expected since the outlook of the team had improved so drastically.

Of course, coaching is only one rung on the ladder of success for a cross country team. The runners themselves did an excellent job of representing Wooster. With captains like Brad Longbrake, Brian Collier and Trent Crayden to lead the team, the runners were inspired to go the extra distance to succeed. The leadership was strong on the team this year and that helped a great deal in developing the talent of some incoming freshmen. Darren Ganyard made impressive showings throughout the season and will most likely continue to help the team in future years. A lot of hard work was involved for these athletes this year as they trained to run the grueling courses. The future for the sport at Wooster is a promising one.

Dave Derr eyes the finish line in the distance as he puts out his last bit of energy for the goal.

Dave Snider, Generals Coach, starts another race with hopes that Wooster will bring home a win.

Geared up for victory, the General pacers hurl themselves across the start line to take a commanding lead.

The Quartet of Generals, led by Brad Longbrake, run stride for stride.

Trent Crayden and Jon Marion anxiously await the start of the race as they survey the field of competition.

Off With A Shot

Despite the rigors of pre-season training, the 1986 Wooster girls cross country team came through with yet another outstanding year. Before the competition could begin, the girls had to go through the long, uphill battle of getting into the race condition. Everyone started out the season a little chubby and out of shape, but with practice every day after school and often on Saturdays, this soon changed. Everyone's times started "dropping all over the place," as one of the team members proclaimed. Then suddenly, before anyone was really ready, the meets began.

Although the team's performance at the first few meets wasn't quite perfect, the girls kept their determination and things started looking up. At every single meet there was at least one girl who outdid her best. By the end of the regular season, the Wooster girls were a team to be feared by other teams. The team took more girls than ever to districts and one freshman, Nyxie Schiebert to regionals.

At the sound of the gun, the mighty Generals begin the quest for victory. Jean Gordon and Nyxie Scheibert pace the pack.

State Playoffs Cap Super Season

The 1986 Wooster High School Football team made history this season. After an outstanding year the Generals finished third in the state competition in Division II play. This was a feat that had never been accomplished at Wooster High. The season ended with a bitter loss to Cincinnati Purcell-Marion in the state semifinal game in Columbus. Cincinnati went on to win the state championship. As a result, the Generals ended the season with an over all record of 11-2.

The traditional rivalry between Wooster and Orrville saw Wooster terminating its four year losing streak with a thrilling 10-6 victory over the Red Riders. The only low point in the season for the Generals was the regular season loss to Ashland.

Mike Huddleston was named to the second all-district team, and junior tailback Tony Lee was named to the first all-district team. In addition to these honors, every year after the Wooster Orrville game, a most valuable player award is given. This year's most valuable player was Bryan Finnicum.

With a season that lasted five months, something must have been going right. The team will always remember those long rides to and from the away games. Memories of the support of this season by the student body will always be appreciated by the entire team.

As the season wore on the tension mounted. Would the Generals go all the way with a State Championship? Even though the ultimate victory eluded the team, the 1986 Football team has set a precedent that will, hopefully, become a tradition in Woo-Town.

Tailback Tony Lee races past the Titan line into the secondary for his second 100-yard game.

Outstanding Season

The 1986-87 Wooster High School varsity volleyball team had an outstanding season. They finished up the season with a record of 17 wins, 6 losses, incidentally those 6 losses were all to top state-ranked teams. Mr. Charles Aten and his right hand, Mrs. Aten, led the lady Generals on their journey to the top. The girls captured the championship title of the Cardinal Conference for the third year in a row. This is the final year since the Cardinal Conference is breaking up and Wooster is moving into the Federal League. The sectional title was Wooster's for the second year in a row. The District Runner-up title was also conquered by the team for the second year in a row. The girls lost the District Championship title in a tough 3 game match against Canton McKinley.

Many of the girls received special individual honors. Marianne Fischer, a spiker, was named Honorable Mention All Cardinal Conference. Susie Morris, a spiker, received Second Team All Cardinal Conference, and Honorable Mention All District. Tara Woodward, the team's setter, was named to the First Team All Cardinal Conference and First Team All District. Clay Price, who improved throughout the season and ended up being a strong spiker, also won First Team All Cardinal Conference honor and was placed on the All District

Second Team. Jill McCreary, a true spiker, was named for the third straight year to the First Team All Cardinal Conference. Adding further to her high school career were third year honors on First Team All District and second year listing as First Team All Ohio.

Set and Spike

The J.V. Volleyball team came off a losing season in 1985 to post a winning record in 1986. The girls worked hard to conclude their season at 10 wins and 8 losses. Under first year coach Anita Journey, five sophomores, and seven freshman, the Generals were able to demonstrate the future will be just as rewarding. Although the girls played most teams that were juniors and sophomores predominately, they were able to hold their own and succeed. The desire of these girls to win was visible with the fact of how many three game sets they played. With these twelve girls, the future of Wooster volleyball will remain bright

The lady Generals anxiously await the opening serve as the squad watches from the bench.

Coach Journey prepares the girls for the match with Triway.

Kathy Mattison stands at the net awaiting the serve from her teammate.

Building For The Future

The Wooster soccer team underwent an adjustment this year, a new head coach. After seven years as head coach of the team, Mr. Roger Sherman stepped down and Mr. George Bell, who for seven years had been the assistant coach took over head spot. Mr. Bud Bender then became the JV coach.

The season was definitely interesting, going from high points to very low periods. In short, inconsistent was the word. The team beat some of the stiffest competitors, but lost to those teams that just "should have been beat." At playoff time the team was 7-9-2 on the year.

The season's high points were: beating Firestone 4-0 and Copley 2-0 during the regular play, and defeating Boardman 1-0 in the final minutes of the first playoff game. These are nearly statistics, however. The 1986 team, as a whole enjoyed the season, and there is much improvement to look forward to next year.

While showing outstanding footwork with the soccer ball, Junior Brian Harward dribbles past defenders early in the match with Akron Hoban.

Nick Havholm, co-captain of the 1986 soccer team, goes for the ball in the match with Central Christian.

Junior Craig Holtink punishes the Hoban goalie as the ball punctures his chest.

With precise accuracy, Corey Sheely lets one fly from the corner in hopes that his teammates can put it in the goal.

With outstretched legs, Senior Ross Retzler can't quite get a foot on the ball in the match with Central Christian.

As their luck gets worse, coaches Bell and Bender show their lack of approval when the Generals fall behind.

Freshmen Booters Added To Squad

The JV soccer team posted a good record with nine wins and five ties. Seventeen sophomores and juniors and five freshman made up the squad.

This year, the infamous "third team" (those who, in previous years, were not quite at JV level) changed into an all-freshman team, the soccer teams first. This change gave the team, as a whole, a better structure for growth. Eleven freshman "booters" made up this team. Soccer is a team sport, and the longer the same people play together, the better they get. A freshman team will, in the future years, give each varsity team a more solid core of players who know each other and work together well.

Nothing But Net

NBW was a key word in the 1986-87 girls' basketball season this year. After the retirement of Coach Jim Byrd, the program drafted all new faces. Michael Gallagher was announced as the new varsity coach with Jeff Bricker as his assistant. Both faces, unfamiliar to the coaching staff at Wooster High, brought with them a different angle of coaching.

The season opened up with a weekend trip to Elyria to scrimmage and give the girls a chance to get to know the coaches, as well as each other. Upon returning, the girls had just a few weeks to prepare for the regular season. New plays were introduced by Coach Bricker, "Iceman", and the season was off.

Before Christmas break, the girls held a strong record at 6-1. Coming off the break the girls lost by just one point to Canton McKinley, the 1987 State runner-ups.

A new dimension was added to the season with the opportunity to play, for the first time, in the Cleveland Coliseum. The lady Generals took on the Ashland Arrows and defeated them as an opener to the Cleveland Cavs vs. Milwaukee Bucks game. "Playing at the Cleveland Coliseum added excitement to the season," said one of the teammates.

The lady Generals captured the Cardinal Conference championship with a record of 6-2. Gallagher earned the C.C. coach of the year award. Kim Durden took home the Cardinal Conference player of the year, as well as, first team honors. Jill McCreary was voted onto the first team, Tara Woodward on the second team and Sima Pandva for honorable mention in the conference.

Once Kim Durden, one of the Generals' captains, gets her eye on the basket there is no stopping her, as the Ashland defenders realize.

Tara Woodward launches one from the free-throw line, trying to put the Generals' lead out of reach.

Even on the bench, Kim Durden and Jill McCreary stay active in the game.

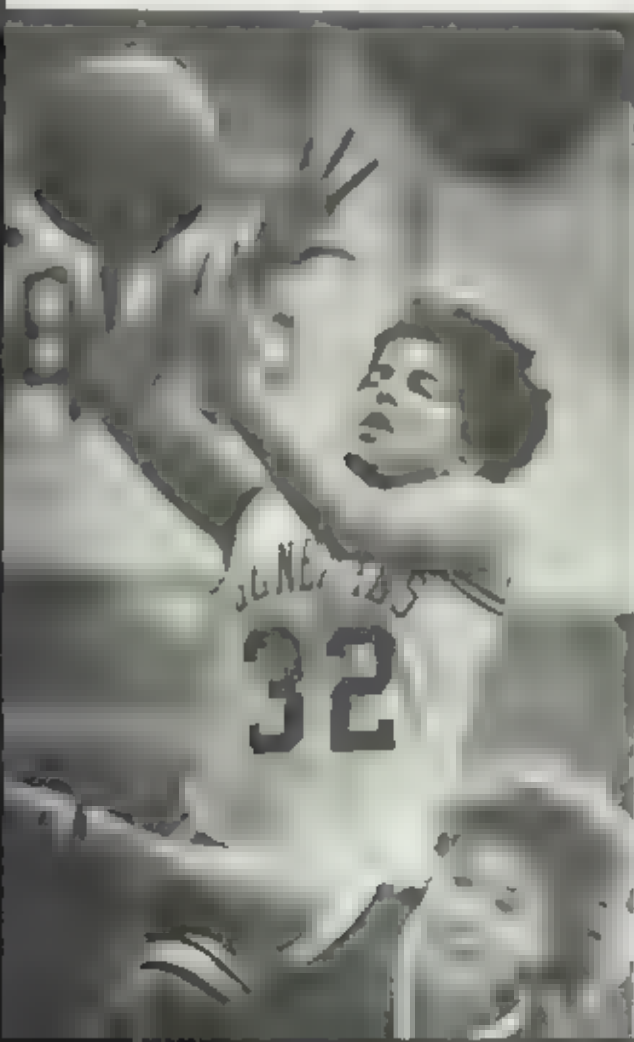

After a special game with Ashland, played in the Richfield Coliseum, the Generals celebrate an exciting victory.

During the game with Canton Timken, Kim Darden makes her presence known by pulling down yet another rebound for the Generals.

New Team Adds To Program

Improvement of the girls' basketball program got a giant boost with the inception of a freshman team. This addition will give the girls more playing time and help to keep the competitive edge needed as they head to the Federal League. Jeff Bricker coached the J.V. team and Anita Jorney held down the freshman spot.

Both coaches got their squads off to a painful start as their "run, run, run" motto was in full swing to get the lady Generals into shape. The commitment by both teams paid off as many of their games came down to the wire in overtimes. From sore muscles to black lines, through triumphs and defeats these teams worked hard as the girls head eventually to varsity positions.

Generals Rebound Sectional Title

Sectional Champs! Cardinal Conference Champs for two years running! The 1986-87 Boys' Basketball team fell short of no ones' expectations with such an outstanding season. Even though defeated in the regional competition against Canton McKinley, the Generals record was outstanding. True teamwork was a key factor to this successful season.

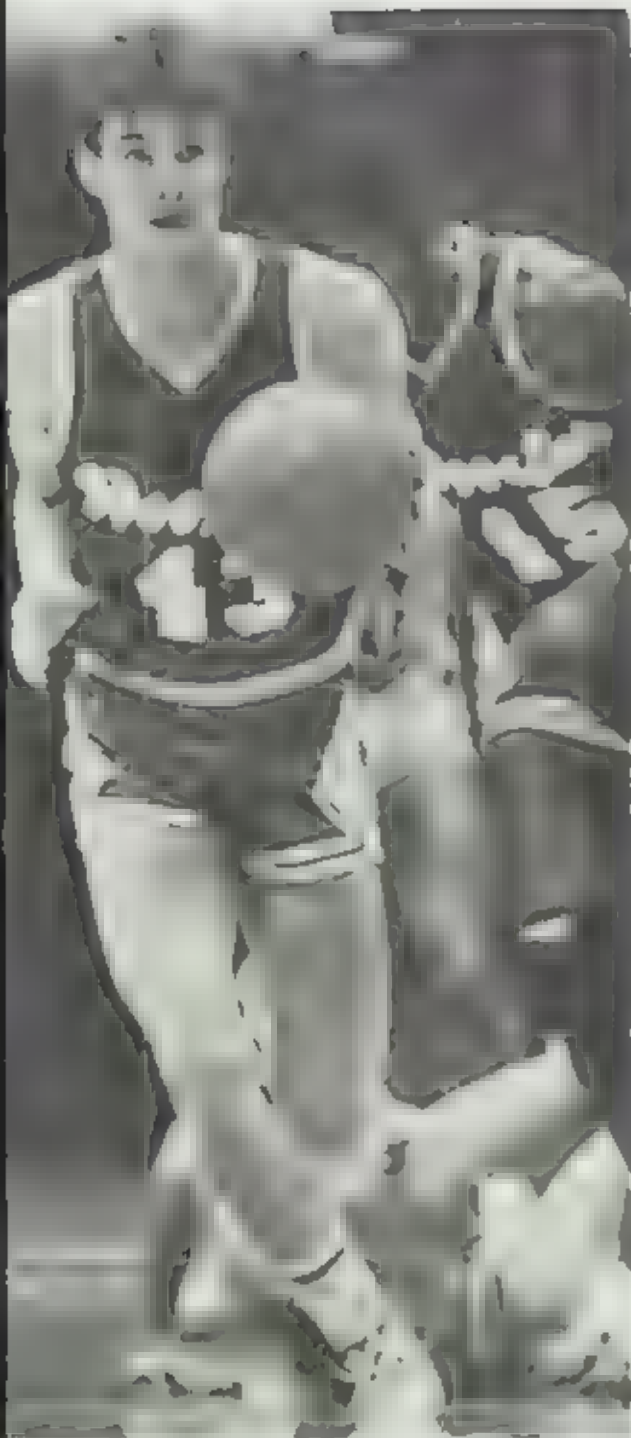

The Generals worked long and hard during practice under the supervision of their coach Mark Alberts. Every detail of the game was gone over until everything was perfect. All this hard work showed up on the basketball court every Friday and Saturday night. Also a big factor in the Generals success was the superb effort by the student body in supporting the team. When the Generals played at home you could almost put the victory in the record books.

The father-son combination of Mark and Mark Alberts capped this super season by being named player and coach of the year in both the Cardinal Conference and The Daily Record. Returning next year for the Generals will be Mark Alberts, Jerome Holmes and Matt McCoy. These three along with strong junior varsity prospects will carry on the winning tradition. Congratulations on an outstanding season!

Shooting For The Future

While the Varsity had a super year, the junior varsity and Freshman squads finished the season with excellent winning records. On the junior varsity level many bright stars working together made a good combination this year. With the guidance of coach Tim Huxley the team compiled a 12-8 overall record. Which showed the Wooster fans what to expect in the years to come

With so many strong prospects for the next year, there is great expectancy for the 1987-88 boys basketball team. During the season the J.V. played many games and gained valuable experience for the upcoming year.

The Freshman team made great strides to learn the complicated varsity offense that will stay with them throughout their high school careers. Under the supervision of coach Mike Zuercher, this fourteen Member team finished the season with a 12-5 record. This twelve member squad has many strong prospects to move into the varsity lineup. Team manager was Bill Shellhorn while Heidi Blakely was ball girl and Mason Alberts was ball boy.

With Perfect Balance

The gymnastics team encountered many problems this year but overcame all of them, finishing with a terrific record and a lot of team spirit. Some of the problems faced by the team included pigeons that lived in the ceiling of the auditorium (directly over the floor mats), collisions with custodians, mysteriously disappearing leotards and several major injuries such as a broken leg, broken hand and badly sprained ankle.

This year, however, the "positives" definitely outweighed the "negatives." The girls had a great time and really worked together. They won the prestigious Shelby Invitational, besting six teams. The school board sent the trainer to attend home meets. Several new crash pads were added to Wooster's collection. The pigeons were finally evicted after a few months of protest. A gymnastics meet was held in the gym, not the auditorium, for the first time in the school's history. Best of all, there was a cheering section of students at that last home meet . . . also for the first time in the school's history. A special thanks to everyone who came to support the team this year.

Susie Morris stretches her legs and warms up prior to a vault routine.

Drive And Putt

Golf, both an individual and a team sport, saw this year's squads always shooting for one stroke better in each outing. The 1986 team came off state qualification the previous year and faced a rebuilding year. Darren Schubert was the sole returner from that team.

Matches started in August as the Generals faced the Fairless Falcons. Fifteen matches later, the season closed with a first place finish in the Dover Invitational. Doing battle with irons, woods and putters, the Generals posted a successful 13-2 season.

Brian Snoddy and Doug Grice played well all season and received most improved players awards. Darren Schubert was named the most valuable player for the season. A milestone was reached this year as Sheila McCormack became the first girl to receive a varsity letter in golf at the high school.

Batter UP!

Despite a very slow start, the girls' varsity softball team fought back to close the season with a 15-13 overall record. A winning season is a mark that has been acquired only two of the seven years since the, still young, program was started. The team consisted of just four seniors, ten juniors, one sophomore and one freshman. The girls placed second in the Cardinal Conference, losing two games, both to the Ashland Arrows by only a few runs.

The most exciting game of the season came during the second half of the double header with Tuslaw. Wooster, having been up by three in the sixth inning, found the game tied and heading into extra innings. Tuslaw hit a quick three runs in the ninth as Wooster's chances looked slim. Tying the game in the bottom of the ninth, a clutch double brought home the win in this exciting game. The Generals went on to win other, down to the wire, games and kept their fans on the edge of their seats at all times.

The junior varsity also ended the season with a 7-6 winning record. The girls were coached by Mr. Ken Richard and are looking forward to aiding the varsity squad in next year's season.

Generals Battle Tough Season

With a slow start to the season, Wooster's varsity squad found themselves five games down and fighting to gain the winning edge. The outstanding leadership given by the eleven seniors helped the team to fight back and end the season with a respectable record. The 13-14 record shows nothing of the close games and "always fighting back" attitude that the guys displayed on the field.

With three sophomores and one freshman on the squad the Generals made the best of an unusual situation

This was a year that saw Mike McClain tie the school home run record with five. A year in which the Generals were again plagued by Ashland forcing a tie for second place in what would be the last Cardinal Conference meeting between these rivals.

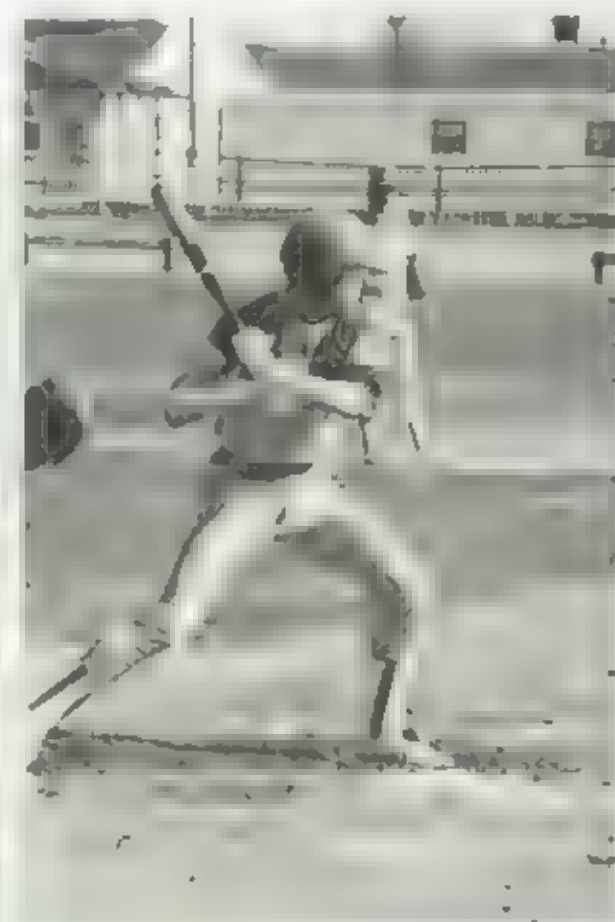

Those named to the all Cardinal Conference team were John Murphy and Brian Collier. Honorable mention went to pitcher John Clark and third basemen Steve Herzog. Mike McClain was also named Cardinal Conference player of the year.

With frustration on his face, senior Corey Hupp returns to his position behind the plate, during the Westerville South series.

Watching the ball with great concentration, junior Doug Snyder readies himself for the oncoming throw.

J.V. Squad Has Homerun Season

The junior varsity baseball team had a super year! Even though the varsity roster graduates eleven seniors, varsity coach Frank Pilsitz is not concerned because of the outstanding season this team had. While compiling a good record, some of the J.V. team members were called upon to play at the varsity level. This will prove to their advantage in the upcoming years. The squad finished the season with a total of 14 wins and only three losses.

The freshmen team worked hard on fundamentals with new coach Craig Ulery. This was a year of growth and development as this young team made tremendous improvements as the season progressed and finished with a 4 and 7 final record. Twenty freshmen comprised this hard working team.

Junior Tim Purdum listens intently to his coach Jeff Bricker as he discusses a recent play.

Making Waves

This was a rebuilding year for the boys' swim team, but they still finished with a winning season. After losing several very talented seniors from last year's team, it appeared as if the swim team this year would have a very disappointing season. Nothing however, could be further from the truth.

The season could best be characterized as one filled not only with personal accomplishments, but team accomplishments as well. Several swimmers improved to a level which surprised them and still others improved to a level which seemed impossible. This was due to the two most important aspects of the training this year, the excellent coaching of Steve Ingles and the senior leadership of team captains Doug Glasgow, Brad Longbrake, John Murray and

Greg Robertson.

Special awards went to Gus Biggio, most improved; Doug Glasgow, outstanding performance; John Murray, most valuable and Brad Longbrake received the coach's award.

One of the outstanding achievements of the season was the relay team which entered districts seeded 12th and finished fourth. As good as the record was, it unfortunately missed by eight-hundredths of a second the time needed to send the squad to state. Relay team members included seniors John Murray, Doug Glasgow, Brad Longbrake and junior Penn Mallonn.

OVERALL RECORD 6-4

Cruising the streets at 5:00 in the morning was the girls' swim team on their way to practice at the College of Wooster pool. The dedication that these girls showed this season allowed them to accomplish several goals. Under the direction of Coach Bizzie Rathgeber, the swimmin' women defended their title of North Eastern Aquatic Conference (N.E.A.C.) champs, along with placing 10th at Districts and sending last year's relay squad of Christie Mallonn, Amy Moder, Cari Ackerman and Mary Hooker back to state. Making finals for the first time in 14 years, the girls placed 12th, breaking their last year's 400 free relay record by three second

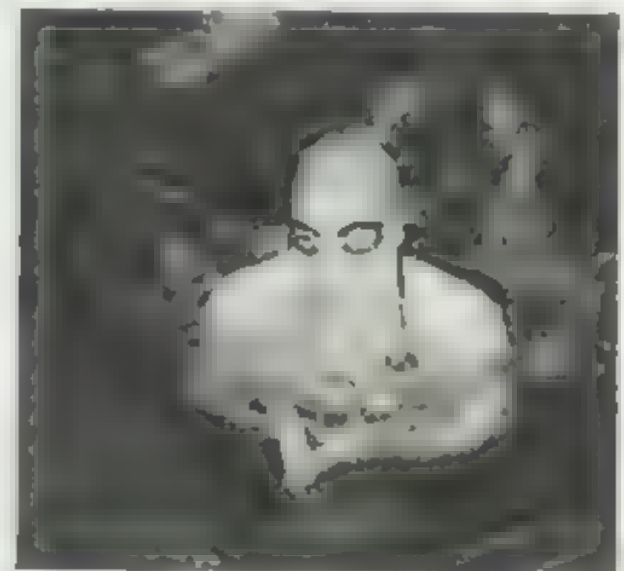

In addition to these performances, Mary Hooker broke her 50 freestyle record as Christie Mallonn broke a long standing 200 I.M. record and the 100 breaststroke record

Leading the girls this year were tri-captains Mary Hooker, Amy Moder and Cari Ackerman. Congratulations girls on a fantastic season!

Mark Set Go!

A season record isn't always an accurate summary of a year. This is the point that George Bell, boys' track head coach, emphasized at the Spring sports award program. Although the 3-7 record didn't show it, there was an encouraging sense of spirit among the team members and promise for more of the same in the future.

The strong leadership of the seniors helped form a dedicated track group. An example of this was at the meet with Canton Timken when the team had 20 personal bests.

This year special awards went to Joe Grassman, field events; Shawn Warden, distance; Andy Sypherd, coaches award and Mitch Sleek got most valuable. 1987 tri-captains were John Hays, Brad Longbrake and Mitch Sleek. Andy Sypherd took Cardinal Conference champ in shot put. Although the team is losing many seniors, nine returning lettermen will help to instill this General pride in next year's team.

A Record Breaking Year!

1987 was truly a record-breaking year for the girls' track team in both dual meets and special tournaments. In their regular meets the girls had a perfect 7-0 record. The additional luster to the season came when they beat Wadsworth by a comfortable 20 points, the first time the General girls had ever been victorious over the Grizzlies.

At invitationals and in state tournaments the team showed their strength again. They never placed lower than fourth in any of their seven outings. Wooster came in 3rd out of 16 teams at the districts and set three school records at regionals along with qualifying seven relay teams and individuals for state competition.

Record setters at regionals were Tiffany Lockett in shot put, Jean Gordon in the 3200 meter run and the 3200 meter relay team of Gordon, Simone House, Kathy Kane and Kris Gillispie. Other school records set this year included the 400 meter relay team of Heather Kuntz, Lisa Shisler, Denise Mairs and Bonnie Burrowes; and Alex Hartmann in the 100 meter hurdles at the new height of 33 inches. No question, it was a year for the record books!

Super Season

The Wooster boys' tennis team shone in their 1987 season, and the future looks even brighter. The team, under head coach Patrick Finney, had an impressive season. The boys were victorious at the last Cardinal Conference finals, winning three out of five final matches. The 9th C.C. title set a school record that will never be broken as this is the last year of the Cardinal Conference for our school. Coach Finney was also named C.C. Coach of the Year.

Later in state tournament play the team was again successful, sending two doubles teams to District finals and one team, junior Drew Paul and freshman Kevin Mathur, to the state meet. Although this seems like an almost perfect year, the future looks to be even more successful for this tennis program. Four of the regular varsity players were freshmen. Only two of the ten letter earners graduated. With such a strong returning team, the next few years Wooster will surely be a tennis force to be reckoned with.

What A Racket

The 1986 WHS girls tennis teams consisted of eight varsity and seven reserve members. The varsity team consisted of Joelle Damron at 1st singles, Courtney Miller at 2nd singles, and Leah Hager at 3rd singles. The 1st doubles team consisted of Jenny Blair and Kathy Weekly, second doubles was played by Jody Hersberger and either Jenny Hodgdon and Jenny Plant, who rotated 3rd singles and 2nd doubles positions. Forty girls tried out for the team which was the largest turnout ever.

1986 was the last year for Cardinal Conference competition. All the hard work in preparation for this big day was met with thunderstorms. The coaches and parents swept the water from the courts many times. The result? Sore arms and another downpour! Eventually the tournament was rescheduled.

The following girls went to District Competition at Medina high school: Jenny Blair, Joelle Damron, Jody Hersberger, Christie Rowe, Suzi Horn, Mishka Finney, and Leah Hager. Joelle Damron was the only player to advance to finals, losing in a tough, three-set match.

At the Fall sports banquet, three special awards were given out. Jenny Blair received the coach's award, Leah Hager received the most improved award, and Joelle Damron received the most outstanding player award.

Overall, the girls tennis team played well. We had a lot of fun and tough competition. We thank coaches Mrs. Angert and Mrs. Matheny, for all their time, help, and support throughout the season.

Taking It To The Mat

The Wooster wrestlers had a season of "ups and downs" this year. Even though the team finished with a 2-5 record, the wrestlers gained much experience and showed good signs for the future. Sixteen of the thirty-two wrestlers who finished the season were freshmen. The team will lose only three seniors to graduation and will be returning nine lettermen next year.

The Generals proudly hosted their annual Wooster J.V. tournament, "meet the team" night and "alumni match" events. A new program, the "little sergeant" wrestling program was started for all 5th and 6th grade elementary students in the Wooster city schools. Seventy-one wrestlers participated in the program, receiving instruction of the basic skills of the sport from the WHS coaches and wrestlers.

Shawn Warden ended the season with the best overall record at 17-11. Tim Gallagher became the first wrestler in recent years to advance to the Regional competition at Medina High School. Tim was chosen as most valuable wrestler for the season.

Meeting Their Match

The junior varsity wrestling squad was composed largely of freshmen, but gained valuable experience for next season. Several of them were placewinners in large tournaments. Placers in the Chippewa Invitational included Steve Hamel, Tony Lemmon, Shawn Abbot and Nate Huffman. The Generals earned place finishes from Hamel, Abbot and Mike Hofer in the Wooster J.V. tournament, Steve Hamel and Rich Jenkins finished third in the Firestone Invitational.

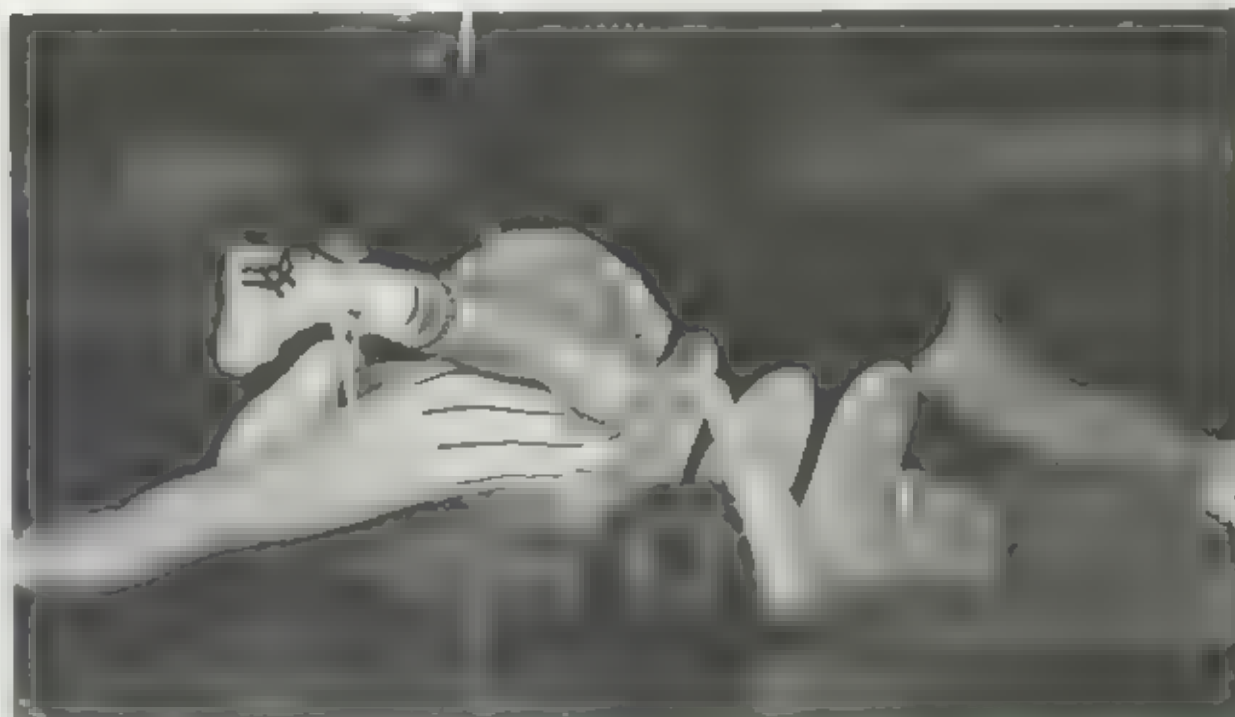

Many members of the young team showed potential for their future in the varsity program in the years ahead.

Cheers For Football.

The Wooster High School football cheerleaders worked hard and kept themselves very busy throughout the record breaking 1986 season. For most, the season began with a week at cheerleading camp in early August. By mid August, the regular practices commenced.

All three groups continued to attend two two hour practices per week, but cheering entails more time and effort than just practice suggests. Every week, spirited signs were made for the player's lockers. In addition, the guys often received cookies or candy in their lockers. "Run-throughs" were made for every home game, and everyone pitched in to make cookies to send to the away games. Before the really important games, rooms or cars belonging to the players were also decorated while pillow cases were also designed to bring the players good luck. To promote spirit, all cheerleaders decorated the buses. Finally, to top off an outstanding season, every senior football player received a scrapbook.

Even while standing still, the cheerleaders display their spirit.

Pep and Cheers

November was a hectic month for basketball cheerleaders this year, as those girls who also were football cheerleaders had to practice for two squads. Football playoffs kept everyone on the go. Once basketball season got under way, regular — twice a week, two hour practices became a way of life.

The basketball squad, in addition to the regular cheerleaders, included guy lifters who added their own style of getting the crowd involved. During the holiday games Brett Burdno, Bryan Finnicum, Mike McClain, Mitch Sleek, Bo Steiner, Andy Sypherd and Mark Newcomer, along with their blue & gold attire, wore red santa caps to add a festive touch. Andy Sypherd was always ready with his acrobatic flips and splits to keep everyone's attention during time outs on the floor.

With the basketball team's outstanding season this year, the cheerleaders were faced with a whole new set of rules to follow during the playoffs. One of the strictest rules was that the girls had to keep at least one foot on the floor at all times (except for jumps). This excluded the lifters from being a part of the playoff cheering. Although the lifters were not allowed to cheer, Andy Sypherd dressed up as a rabbit and became the team mascot.

French And German Clubs Are Active

C'est le Club Francais, or in laymen's terms, its the French Club! The Wooster French Club is composed of students enrolled in French classes who are eager to explore the French culture in greater depth. During the fall and winter the members raise money in various ways. Two of this year's fund raisers were French food sales at the winter play and personalized candy cane sales at Christmas. Then, in the spring the accumulated funds went toward a trip to the Columbus French Market and a trip to a local French restaurant to sample traditional French cuisine. The club also threw parties for all the French students during the winter. At the parties club members played French games and made French food such as crepes. Since France is a rather long way from here, it is nice to have a little bit of France in Wooster, Viva le Club!

The Wooster High School German Club meets and performs activities to try to help students of the German language develop a better understanding of the German culture and traditions. This year started off with a bang at the first Oktoberfest held by the club in two years. The Oktoberfest consisted of customary activities, like the German wedding, and a few extras such as the rootbeer drinking and sauerkraut eating contests. Through the winter the club met to plan outings such as a trip to a German graveyard and a dinner at Erika's Bar and Grill which serves the best German cuisine in the tri-county area.

SPAIN AND ROME COME ALIVE

This year, the Spanish Club was very active. Along with the traditional trip to Chi Chi's, the group had a Christmas Party (complete with Papa Noel) and a reenactment of a South American Carnival.

Every year, the Spanish Club goes to Chi Chi's (a Mexican restaurant) to expose the club to traditional Mexican food. It is one of the most popular outings for the members.

This year's Christmas Party was also a going away party for Moni Sala and Gisella Moreira, exchange students returning home. They received gifts from Papa Noel (Nick Fynn) along with green and red popcorn balls for everyone else. Club members did traditional Spanish dances to Spanish Music.

During the "Carnival", Adela Chamorro and Agnes Diniz, exchange students from Paraguay and Brazil, taught everyone Spanish songs and traditional carnival dances.

Spanish Club emphasized the cultural aspects of Spanish life. Members had fun while learning how the Spanish celebrate their holidays.

FHA Is Always Busy

One of the busiest organizations at Wooster High is Future Homemakers of America. Nationally this group provides opportunities for developing individual and group initiative in planning and carrying out activities related to the dual role of homemaker and wage-earner. Locally, from cooking and serving marvelous food to cleaning the city parks, these gals were very active during the year.

A week-long series of events were undertaken to highlight National FHA week in February. Members attended church as a group, sponsored a family night mini-Olympics emphasizing fitness and nutrition and hosted a faculty brunch for teacher appreciation day.

Holiday parties were planned and given for faculty children on Halloween, Christmas and Easter. From ghosts to Santa Claus to bunnies, everyone had fun on these special occasions.

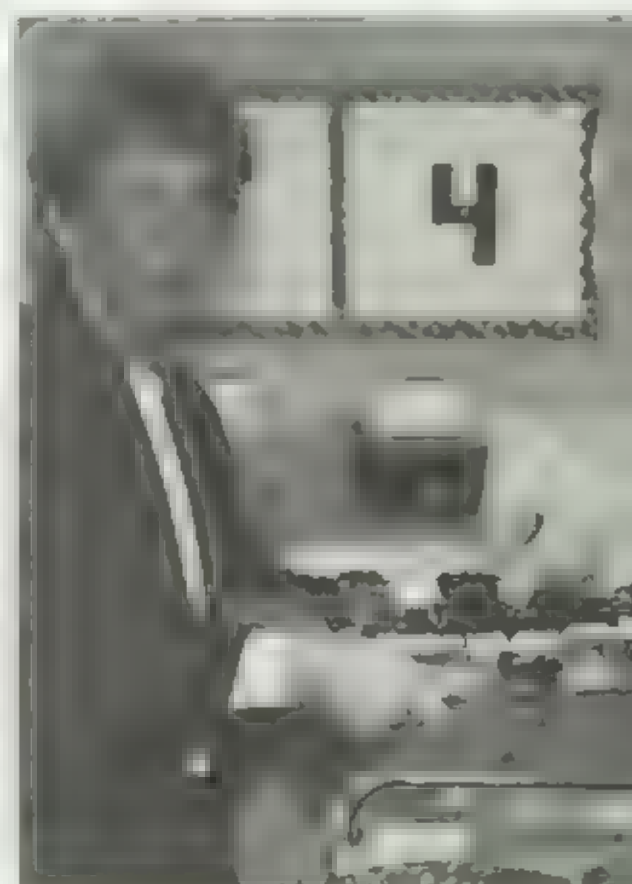

Working as a group and with their adviser Mrs. Relda Smith our FHA'ers worked toward their goal to help individuals improve personal, family and community living.

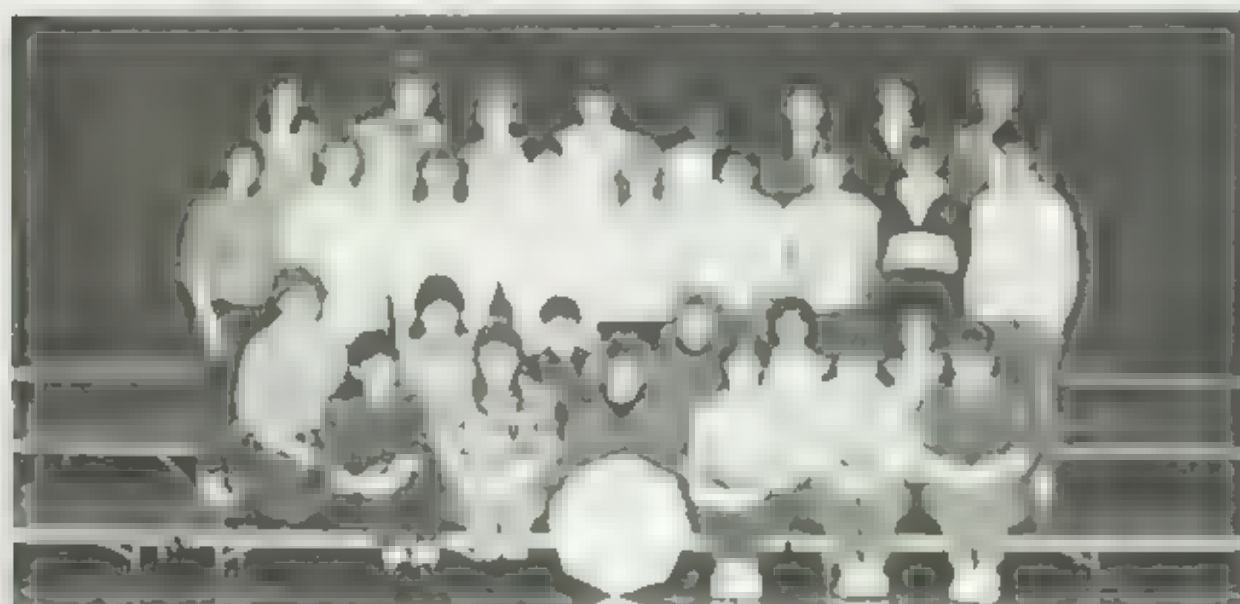

Horn's residents enjoy the company and homemade cooking of FHA members.

Mandy Simpson helps the faculty kids and enjoys the Christmas party.

Preparing and serving food for a speech tournament are Mrs. Relda Smith, Laurie Crisco and Debbie Egner.

The World Is A Stage

"All the world is a stage"
— William Shakespeare

This quote sums up the many diverse activities that the Drama Club has participated in this year. The 90 member organization produced and performed all the plays here at WHS. This year, under the direction of Lizbeth Butdorf, this group performed Harvey, a comedy; the senior student-directed one-act plays I Never Saw Another Butterfly, Diet Begins Tomorrow and Dingaling, and The Miracle Worker, the story of Helen Keller and her teacher Anne Sullivan.

Wooster's club is also a charter member of the International Thespian Society and celebrated its 50th anniversary this year. Approximately half of the club participants are thespians, an honor earned through 100 hours of working, participating or watching any plays during their high school career.

The officers, Nora VanLieu, president; Ryan Gibbons, vice president, Kim Mark, treasurer and Jennie Stoll, secretary celebrated this golden anniversary through a drama banquet which featured the induction of new thespians, rediscovery of the 50 year old Thespian Society membership charter and awards for seniors and underclassmen. It was truly a notable year and here's to another outstanding fifty.

Geoff Belanger gets his hair styled for his role in "Ding-a-ling", one of the one-act plays.

Take him away! John Mosher and Jennifer Murray kid around during rehearsal.

Students Hit Slopes

Ski Club is always one of the most popular extracurricular activities at Wooster High School and the 1986-87 school year was no exception. There was only room for 120 people in the club and all the spots were filled within a few days. One of the reasons for this tremendous popularity was the fact that this year the group skied at Boston Mills. In previous years the club has gone to Clear Fork.

Unfortunately, this year's unusually warm weather posed some problems for the club. Trips had to be cancelled because of lack of good snow. Attempting to reschedule caused some problems, but despite a few obstacles, everyone seemed to enjoy the trips. With crisp, fresh air and many friends who wouldn't have fun? All members had to get their medical forms, money and emergency releases in prior to the season. That may sound discouraging, but keep in mind that this is one of the most fun, LEGAL things to do at W.H.S

Rowdy ski club members are obviously enthused about the upcoming ski trip. Many people enjoy ski club because it gives them an opportunity to spend more time with their friends.

Stowing their ski gear are Dave Conrad '89 and Chip Taylor '87.

The gang's all here! The '86-87 WHS ski club.

The club's fearless adviser, Mrs. Geri Margin.

NHS Taps And Tutors

Members of National Honor Society are primarily chosen based on the demonstration of character, leadership and scholarship (cumulative 3.5 GPA)

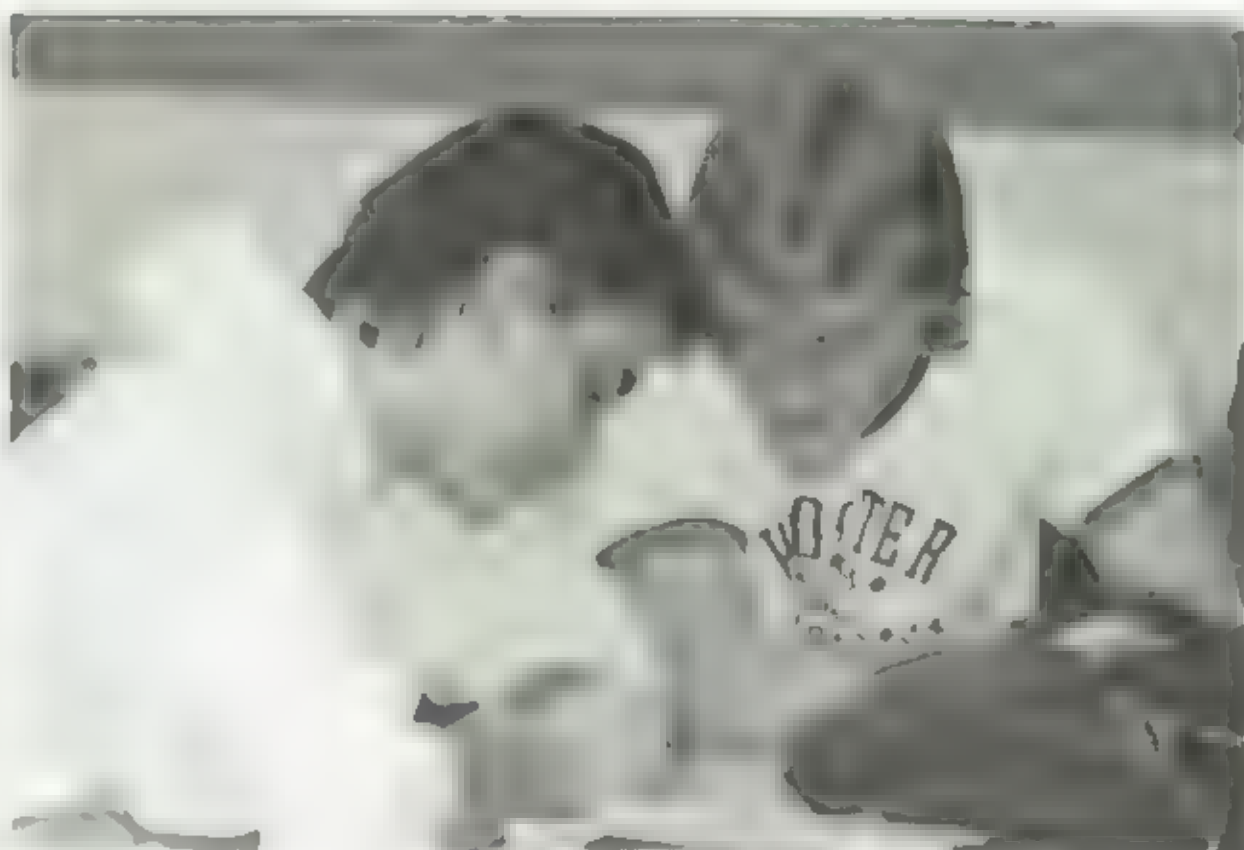

Activities for the 1986-87 school year included: a picnic at adviser Coleman Knight's house, a record-breaking successful Christmas poinsettia sale, tapping of new members in the Spring and the April Induction Banquet. Guest speaker at the induction was Dr. Fred W. Cropp from the College of Wooster.

NHS's members spend many hours every week providing tutoring assistance to students. Approximately 145 students benefitted from this service during the school year. A "harem" dance was held in May as the final fundraiser. The highlight of the year was the long-awaited trip to Cedar Point. All NHS members look forward to this fun day and the end of a hard year of dedicated service to our Alma Mater.

New members Kris Dykstra and Sima Pandya talk to Wendy Richard following their tapping.

Tutoring students is the major responsibility that NHS members perform. John Hays is helping junior Andy Cox with an assignment.

Can We Talk?

What does it feel like to wake up before dawn on a Saturday morning, then travel on a freezing-cold bus to compete in an even colder school? What do you say when you walk into a high school auditorium and find people talking with great animation — to the walls? What's it like to say the same speech three to five times in one day?

The only people fit to answer these bizarre questions are the members of the Speech Team, affectionately known to each other as "the speechies". This year the speech team traveled to 11 different schools, garnering over 100 trophies and numbering 60 members. The team became Akron District champions and sent four competitors (Jennifer Bartashus, Nora VanLieu, Tina Bucher and Nick Fynn) to Nationals.

The divisions in which Wooster members compete are original oratory, oratorical interpretation, prose-poetry, humorous interpretation, dramatic interpretation, duet acting, domestic extemp, foreign extemp, Lincoln-Douglas debate, two-person debate and four-person debate. The Speech Team is led (courageously and patiently — it must be admitted) by Leslie Pearce, Sharen Altoff and Chris Meister.

National qualifiers, Nick Fynn and Tina Bucher are all smiles. Nick competes at this level for the third time and Tina goes for the first time.

Dedicated Staffers Publish Book

Dedication is the key word to describe the yearbook staff members. A whole year of dedication to be exact! Before school even began last fall, staff members were selling ads to area businesses. With the beginning of school further planning and production really got into full swing.

The PUB (publication office) was a busy place all the time from study hall times, lunches, weekly meetings, after school and any other time that was needed to meet the demanding deadline schedules that constantly hung over the staff's heads. What were these people doing all this time?

They were: selling ads, counting orders, selling books, handling money, typing, doing layouts, typing, writing captions, drawing dummies and triplicates, counting and recounting hundreds of little pictures and then numbering them, typing, tagging pictures, double and triple checking tons of details, typing, sorting pictures, taking pictures, writing and still more typing and trying desperately to keep on schedule.

Between Tina Miller, editor, and Mrs. Pat Richard, adviser, they managed to keep everyone very busy. Getting the job done and saving your sanity became difficult to say the least.

The dedicated 1987 Imperator staff heaved a sigh as the book neared completion, but they can't rest for long, because another year of dedication starts soon for the 1988 volume.

Jennie Romich works on finalizing the underclass sections, a tedious job.

"That's O.K., I'll type it again," becomes Ila Pandya's familiar lament in the PUB.

"Jack of all trades," editor Tina Miller finishes a layout for the senior section of the book.

Ideas come from all kinds of sources as Lisa Lunsford hunts for story details.

Council Serves Students and Town

Student Council — what images of leadership and responsibility we conjure up by the title. These students met once every two weeks, taking the reins of the student body. One of the several school projects funded and run by the student council included an Ice Cream Day, where many students and teachers lined up for a free hand-served ice cream cone. Another project involved the foreign exchange students and teachers who were served an "appreciation" breakfast one morning.

Although, the most outstanding and rewarding activity the council participated in was the Apple Creek Development Center Christmas Party and not many students know about this activity. Members baked cookies, bought presents and gave a party for a number of residents. "Project Warmth" was another community project in which $200 was donated to Wayne Head Start for blankets for needy families. Student Council ran the Homecoming elections and parade, built the bonfire, organized the Coming Home Dance and supplied WHS with Valentine's Day hearts. Many of these projects provided unforgettable memories to the student body.

Creating a mixed media project, senior Tina Miller works with watercolor and pen and ink to achieve the desired effect.

During one of the meetings, juniors Tricia Miller and Andrea Ulfery work on another project.

Paint And Plans For New Club

The new kid on the organization scene this year was the Art Club. Members hoped the meetings would be a time to work on current art projects or just to doodle for fun.

A major project for the year was the plan to repaint the former "lion" hallway in the basement. Drawings are still being submitted for consideration and the completion of this project will be left until next year.

Another goal was to help college bound art students to find information on art institutes and colleges. Preparation of art portfolios was discussed. The group will be ready to start early next year and have many plans for growth and creativity.

Mrs. Lisa Wiles, art club adviser, grades finished projects after a meeting.

Writers Aim To Publish

Believe it or not, hidden in the back corners of the library and somewhere in the pile of papers on the English teacher's desk, there is writing talent here at WHS. Somewhere behind the jocks and the dramatists, the punks and the bookworms, there are those students who have the gift of words. In between homework and band rehearsal and classes, there are those among us who can turn a phrase like Robert Frost, compose a sonnet like Shakespeare, speak out to the world like Langston Hughes, or spin tales like Poe and Mark Twain. The trick is to find an outlet for such talent.

One was found this year by English teachers, Mrs. Tate Hudson and Mrs. Gloria Winkler: Writing for Publication, a club where aspiring writers can share their work and learn of literary contests for high school writers. A barrage of literary works, pass through: essays, short stories, traditional and modern poems and anyone with an interest is welcome. Meetings for W.F.P. are held every two weeks, after school, where students share their pieces with other members of the group, with open discussions and constructive criticism. Not only is writing for publication a great way to meet other young writers, it's also a chance to share one's poetry and prose somewhere else besides the stalls in the bathroom amid the graffiti. Writing for publication hopes to bring many WHS writers "out of the closet" — or is that out of the stalls?

New This Year — Our Own "G.Q."

New to the Wooster literary scene this year, the General Quarterly Magazine, also known as Wooster's "G.Q." combined a sharp professional format with in-depth articles, poetry, and original artwork. The magazine was a combination of two long-running Wooster publications, The General Newspaper and the Quest Literary Magazine. The format featured a full-color glossy cover and high quality black and white glossy pages. Excellent photographs and artwork done by G.Q. staff members could also be found in the magazine. Budding writers had a chance to practice their journalism and creative skills on the G.Q. Human interest stories, record reviews, sports stories, interviews, and poetry were included in the magazine's premier issue. Finding the financial support for such an expensive undertaking was not easy. Staff workers sold advertisements to local businesses to help fund the magazine. Many long hours were put into making the General Quarterly a successful journalistic effort.

Editors Heather Zapp, Nancy Taggart, Drew Paul, Susan Lee, and Curtis Ring look over material for the magazine's premier issue.

We open doors to the future...

- Communication systems
- Computer access
- Environmental control systems
- Mobility control

People with severe physical handicaps find it hard to make their way in this world because it takes more than hard work for them to respond to opportunity. There must be people who are people who will reach. And there must be high-quality technical devices to compensate for their physical limitations.

That's where PRC comes in. We offer products and services that enable the physically handicapped to gain independence. We make it possible for them to communicate, to learn. We give them hope.

Prentke Romich Company is the oldest and largest company working exclusively in this special field. We're always looking ahead, finding new and improved products, seeking better ways to help people achieve... and, ultimately, to improve the quality of their lives.

For someone you know is physically handicapped, please call. Give us a chance to meet your special needs.

Quality for people, products, and service.

Here's To The Class of 1987

Follow your dream
take one step at a time and don't settle for less, just continue to climb

Follow your dream
if you stumble, don't stop and lose sight of your goal, press on to the top

For only on top can we see the whole view, can we see what we've done, and what we can do, can we then have the vision to seek something new

Press on and follow your dream

COLOPHON

The 1987 IMPERATOR was printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks in the Gettysburg, Pennsylvania plant. This 224 page book was printed in a limited press run of 825 copies and trimmed to a 9x12 size. The quarter bound cover was custom embossed using staff designed art and silkscreened in sky blue. Base colors are cerulean blue and white.

Twenty four pages were done in four color, including a 16 page senior section. Divider pages were done in various spot colors and used staff art. Color sections are printed on 80# Bordeaux paper and all other pages used 80# Ermine.

Optima type was used for all body copy and Optima Black for all captions. Headline styles included Newbury, Lydian, Chelsea Light Italic, Bingham Script, Souvenir Light and Korinna.

It Was Quite A Year .

The violent guerrilla warfare in Nicaragua and tense racial unrest in South Africa were constantly in the forefront. The drug epidemic was again one of America's biggest concerns. Deadly crack exploded onto the scene and AIDS had everyone scared. There were again spy scandals, this time at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. Jim Bakker and Gary Hart had infidelity scandals of their own. The plight of the troubled American farmer continued. The Star Wars defense system sank the summit between Regan and Gorbachev in Reykjavik. The Baby M Case questioned our morals and Constitutional laws. Democrats recaptured the Senate and the big Wall Street scam centered on "Ivan the Terrible" Boesky.

Liberace, Desi Arnaz, Scatman Crothers and William Casey died. The genius of Andy Warhol's gone. So is the child-like joy of Danny Kaye. We also mark the death of actor Ray Bolger, the Scarecrow in the Wizard of Oz, the last surviving star of that classic film. The damage done by the Chernobyl accident still hang over our heads. Soviet dissident and human rights activist Andrei Sakharov was finally released from prison. Voyager flew around the world, while we marked the first anniversary of the Challenger's explosion. Safety of air travel was again questioned. Amtrak had its worst accident ever. After ousting Filipino president Ferdinand Marcos, Corazon Aquino was named Time magazine's Woman of the Year. Other figures in the news included Oliver North (the main figure in the Iran-contra scandal), South Africans Winnie and Nelson Mandela and Ora. Robert's plea for funds. Suicide death pacts between teenagers scarred the nation.

The Mets won the World Series, the Giants won the Super Bowl and the U.S. won back the America's Cup. Harvard University turned 350 years old. composer Irving Berlin celebrated his 99th. Julius "Dr. J" Erving retired from basketball. Colorization of classic black and white movies enraged many.

Music veterans like Genesis, Paul Simon, Steve Winwood and Peter Gabriel had successful comebacks. Bon Jovi was big. The Boss released a live five-record set while the Beastie Boys rocked up the charts. U2 came out with another explosive album destined to be a hit. Platoon showed the Vietnam War as it really was. dead actress Marlee Matlin soared in Children of a Lesser God and won the Best Actress Oscar. Crocodile Dundee, Hannah and Her Sisters, Color of Money were also prominent films of the year.

Here at WHS we had the most outstanding year in the history of the athletic program. The football team became state finalists and the speech team sent 23 people to state competition and tour to nationals. The band program and mixed chorus took superior ratings at state-level competition. Two mock trial teams went to state (a first time ever event) and one team finished second overall. The girls' swim team medley relay broke a school record and the girls' track team was undefeated in dual meets. The varsity basketball team were district finalists. The Orchestra, Jazz Band and choirs took the highest honors in national competition in Washington, D.C. Fifteen students dominated state competition for History Day and qualified ten members to nationals. It was a year filled with truly outstanding achievements and honors for our students.

We are here we are
we're and we're Sometimes it's hard to remember we're still just teenagers

Another school year is over
Despite those Mondays that seemed to last forever the classes you thought you'd never survive and the teachers you would not love the final said they didn't
Perhaps you wish that you had gone to do something to make the time patch up what you had done
So far the years really don't care anything about it now

But just thing of it.

together we survived curfews and parents
SAT's and ACT's,
homework done wrong and dates gone wrong
Home Coming and Coming-Home
Division playoffs in football and state competition in speech

We had three of the school year
But Mondays were the best the others were just days

And you know I don't forget

No where were we Were we ever inspired or were you ever inspired

Did you accept me as I was
Did you express your feelings
Did you ever want to be like me

No matter if you're a senior about to leave the world at least you've got three more years to grow

But you know you were there? . . .

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of understanding the cultural context of the research. It highlights the need for researchers to be sensitive to the values and beliefs of the communities they are studying. This is particularly important in the field of education, where cultural differences can significantly impact learning outcomes.

The second part of the paper focuses on the methodology used in the study. It describes the process of selecting participants, collecting data, and analyzing the results. The authors emphasize the importance of using a mixed-methods approach to capture both quantitative and qualitative data.

The third part of the paper presents the findings of the study. It shows that there are significant differences in learning outcomes between students from different cultural backgrounds. These differences are attributed to a variety of factors, including language barriers, social norms, and access to resources.

The final part of the paper discusses the implications of the findings for education. It suggests that educators should take steps to create a more inclusive learning environment for all students. This can be done by providing additional support for students who are struggling and by incorporating culturally relevant materials into the curriculum.
